MILLIONS OF UNION TOILERS GO ON STRIKE

Britain Feels Grip of Labor's Might When General Walkout Becomes Effective At Midnight Monday---Marchers Clash With Police.

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The British general strike is complete in every particular, it was officially announced at labor headquarters early this evening. The union officials said the reports reaching them surpassed all expectations.

Hire Strikebreakers.

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.) — Strikebreakers are being hired by the Southern and Great Western railways in order to maintain their service interrupted by the general strike. The Southern railway, which operates an extensive suburban service, expects to open a half hour service on some of its lines this evening.

Successful In Main.

LONDON, May 4.—(2:46 p. m.)—(By the Associated Press.)—Labor's first attempt to tie up all the industrial life of Great Britain has been mainly successful since the inception of the general strike at midnight.

Up to this hour no disorders of moment had been reported. The government's emergency services for supplying the necessities of the population are working and volunteers are running a few trains, trams and buses, but beyond this scarcely a wheel is turning throughout the country.

An Approach to Violence.

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The first approach to violence in the general strike came this morning at the East and West India cargo docks in the heart of the communist district of London.

Large bodies of men pointed [illegible] scores of vehicles to turn back and some of the lighter vehicles were [illegible]

A Summary of British Strike

(By the Associated Press.)

Five million workers are estimated to be idle in Great Britain's first general strike, called in sympathy with the coal miners.

The house of commons was again considering the situation today and the miners executive committee and council of the Trades Union congress were meeting in an effort to find a basis for settlement.

Those immediately involved in the strike were railway men, railway clerks, builders, transport workers, seamen, printers, iron workers and electricians. Workers in allied lines were made idle when these men walked out.

The first effect of the strike was to tie up the transit facilities of London and the other large cities, forcing millions to walk and jamming the streets with motorcars.

Shipping was hard hit, with the English channel service greatly curtailed.

Publication of the newspapers in London and the big provincial towns was at a standstill.

There is no scarcity of food as yet, volunteers distributing milk and other necessities.

Thousands of Americans are storming the tourist bureaus seeking to get to the continent.

Striking dock workers in the so-called communist district of London, around the East and West Indian docks, turned back many vehicles bearing people to business offices and shops.

The banks and business houses remained opened. Little trading was done on the stock exchange.

Some of the theaters were dark and the principal places of entertainment were the saloons, which were packed to the doors.

SON ATTACKS AGED PARENT

Police Comb Maryland Highways For Harry M. Rowe, Jr., Who Fractured Skull Of Prominent Baltimore Business Man.

STABBED SISTER, 15, WHO TRIED AID FATHER

Stepmother Tells Officers Of Her Leap From Second Story to Escape Maddened Man: Suffered Broken Arm, Loss of Finger.

BALTIMORE, May 4.—By the Associated Press)—Police combed the highways today in search of Harry M. Rowe, jr., who last night fractured the skull of his father, Dr. Harry M. Rowe, a prominent Baltimore business man, stabbed his sister, Portia, 15, twice, and caused several severe injuries to his stepmother in their home at Catonsville, a suburb. The injuries of Mr. Rowe, inflicted with an iron bar, and those of his daughter, may prove fatal. Mrs. Rowe suffered a broken arm, the loss of a finger and other hurts.

Police found Rowe slumped over in a chair in the wrecked library with four deep and long gashes in the head. Trails of blood led about the library, up the stairway and through the upper story of the house. Mrs. Rowe was found wandering in an hysterical condition about the grounds. Portia had fallen unconscious from her wounds at the gardener's house, where she had sought haven.

No Warning of Attack.

At a hospital Mrs. Rowe told the police Harry, jr., had entered suddenly while they were reading in the library. Without speaking, he beat his father about the head with a bar. He also carried a knife, she said. When Mrs. Rowe and Portia went to the aid of Mr. Rowe, who is 57 years old, the younger man stabbed the girl in the breast and threw his stepmother into the fireplace, she said.

Portia fled from the house only to be overtaken and stabbed in the back. Returning to the house, the maddened man sought Mrs. Rowe, who, in escaping, leaped from a second story window, breaking her arm and tearing off a finger.

Harry, jr., is then believed to have left the scene in his automobile. He is 30 years old and resides in Annapolis, Md. A business disagreement with his father two years ago caused bitterness between them and may have provided a motive for the attack, Mrs. Rowe told officers.

Says Thousands Christian Women Held In Harems

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP)—More than 100,000 Christian women and girls are held captive in Turkish harems, in the belief of Bishop William T. Manning.

Ratification of the Lausanne treaty, he told the Girls' Friendly society at its annual meeting would mean that "the United States assents in silence to these abominations."

He said that the figures as to the Christian women and girls were contained in official reports of the League of Nations.

U. S. WATCHING BRITISH CRISIS

Washington Government Taking Keen Interest In England's General Strike But No Comment Offered —American Tourists Go To Paris.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—By the Associated Press.—The American Federation of Labor holds that the miners of Great Britain are justified in their demands for a "decent" living wage and that their grievances should be "speedily redressed."

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—In its role of bystander, the American government is taking a keen interest in the general strike in England, but is saying nothing.

Commerce department officials, from Secretary Hoover down, declined today to predict what the economic effects would be. Great Britain is an outstanding customer of American industry and it generally conceded that paralysis of business in England will have reaction here. The extent of that influence cannot be accurately assessed.

President Coolidge sought all available information this morning on the situation during the first hours of the tie-up.

Like the government departments, headquarters of the American Federation of Labor remained silent, but it was indicated President Green might have something to say later.

Tourists Flee England.

LONDON, May 4.—By the Associated Press.—The American tourists in England fled before the general strike as birds before a storm. Every available airplane was filled today with passengers for Paris, and hundreds left in flotillas for the channel ports, carrying tourists who were unable to leave England yesterday because of the inability of the railroads to provide enough trains to carry the rush.

APPEAL CARTER'S DEATH SENTENCE

Public Defender Takes "Sniper's" Case To Supreme Court.

Move Delays Execution Of Omaha Killer Originally Set For July 9.

An appeal from the death sentence imposed on Frank Carter, the Omaha "sniper," for the murder of Austin D. Searles on February 17, last, in the commission of a robbery, was filed in the Nebraska supreme court Tuesday by Public Defender J. N. Baldwin of Omaha. As is customary in all such cases, Clerk Lindsay immediately notified Warden Fenton of the penitentiary to postpone Carter's execution, set for July 9, until the high tribunal has heard and decided the appeal.

A poverty affidavit was presented by the attorney, which entitles Carter to have his case reviewed by the superior judicial body without payment of the usual costs. This does not include an attorney fee, however, as the Omaha public defender is on the regular payroll of the city.

Among the chief points raised by Baldwin in asking a reversal is the claim that the Nebraska statute authorizing a jury to fix the penalty for murder at either death or life imprisonment is contrary to the federal and state constitutions in that it delegates judicial power to non-judicial officers.

Another ground of alleged error is the exclusion of all persons for jury duty at the trial who stated under examination that they were opposed to capital punishment. The defender also complains of these things:

Refusal of the trial court to accept a plea of guilty to second degree murder and fix the penalty at life imprisonment.

Overruling of insanity plea.

Various alleged irregularities, including misconduct of jurors and lack of a fair trial, together with insufficiency of evidence, newly discovered evidence, and fourteen instructions given to the jury.

Carter was prosecuted under his own name and five different aliases, all of which appear in the title of the case. He was accused of killing several people, but tried only for the Searles murder. During his trial he protested against the attempt of his counsel to have him pronounced insane.

H. E. Steiger In Charge Catering Cornhusker Hotel

Herman E. Steiger will be superintendent of catering for the new Cornhusker hotel which is expected to be opened about June 15. He has been manager of the Freadrich cafe since the first of February.

Mr. Steiger is a native of Switzerland and has been connected with hotels in this capacity for a number of years. He was graduated from the national hotel academy of Switzerland and was the recipient of the Benner prize which gave him a year's training in the Ritz Carlton hotel of New York. Since then he has been associated with the Hotel Pfister, Milwaukee, Edgewater Beach hotel, Chicago, and a number of summer resorts.

He will begin immediately organizing his force preparatory to the opening of the Cornhusker hotel dining room and coffee shop.

DAUGHTER AND SON OF DAVIS HIS WITNESSES

First Witnesses Called By Defense In Murder Trial Now Going On In District Court Of Red Willow County.

CALLED TO REFUTE STATE'S TESTIMONY

Say Father Was In Iowa At Time He Is Alleged To Have Been Seen In Store In Company Of Mrs. Resler.

DAVIS TO TESTIFY.

M'COOK, Neb., May 4.—By the Associated Press.—E. J. Lambe of defense counsel shortly before the afternoon session opened, said that he had decided to call Bert M. Davis to the stand today.

McCOOK, Neb., May 4.—(By the Associated press. — Lawyers for Bert M. Davis, today began his defense in District court here against charges of poisoning his first wife, Blanche, last summer. His two children, Fern and Glen, who previously had been prosecution witnesses, were his first witnesses today, having switched to their father's side when the state concluded its evidence at the beginning of today's court session.

The first move of the defense was to refute the testimony of Elmer Gladson of Beaver City, who had said that he saw Davis and Mrs. Kate Resler, who is awaiting trial as accessory in the alleged poisoning, in a "compromising position" in the Davis grocery store at Beaver City the night of August 14, last. Both testified that their father and mother were with them in Iowa at a family reunion, on that date, two weeks before their mother's death.

E. J. Lambe of defense counsel questioned Fern to refute testimony

HOLD SCHOOL BONDS VALID

Supreme Court Says Law Too Vague to Vitiate Issue.

Coal Company's $82,000 Verdict Against Milwaukee Railroad Stands.

Despite "unintelligible legislation" on the subject of bond issues by school districts of Nebraska, the state supreme court holds that the voting of $10,000 in bonds to build a schoolhouse at Chapman, Merrick county, was valid and that the Union Pacific railroad, which contested its assessment of taxes for that purpose, must pay.

This decision affirms one by the district court of Merrick county refusing an injunction asked by the railroad corporation to prevent collection of the tax.

Points raised by the Union Pacific in resistance to the levy were that the notice of election had not been published in a newspaper 20 days in advance, as provided in an act passed by the legislature in 1923, and that the majority for the bonds was less than three-fifths of all the qualified school voters in the district.

In passing upon these questions, the court says that while the 1923 statute is vague in terms it did not specifically repeal the former law affecting rural districts with fewer than 150 pupils, in which class Chapman belongs. The fact that notices of the election were posted up in public places, instead of being printed in a newspaper, did not vitiate the election, declares the court.

Incidentally, the opinion by Judge Rose repudiates the supreme court's own "dictum" in an old case entitled State vs. Marsh (108 Neb. 749) and says the rule announced there is erroneous.

Falls City Publisher Loses

Inasmuch as a series of scavenger tax notices issued by Richardson county a few years ago to delinquent owners was published in a newspaper designated by the county board, and paid for by it, the county is not liable to payment to another paper which the county treasurer designated as the medium of publication, the supreme court finds in affirming the judgment of the district court in the suit of Charles F. Davis against the city.

Davis is publisher of the Falls City News. Under the state law, the county board specifies the

A DECISION IS EXPECTED IN TEN DAYS

Night Sessions Suggested As Means of Expediting Action---Senate Waits For Lower Body's Debate To Clarify The Issues.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Beginning four days of general debate today, the house expects to make up its mind in a week or ten days on the long pending surplus crop problem.

Night sessions have been suggested as a means of expediting action and giving proponents of the varied proposals reported by the agriculture committee ample opportunity to discuss them. The senate meanwhile is waiting for the house discussion to clarify the issues, with various groups continuing conferences for study of the different plans.

Haugen Bill Has Right of Way.

The Haugen price stabilization bill, calling for an appropriation of $375,000,000 and application of an equalization fee on basic commodities after two years, was given right of way before the house, with the Tincher credit plan and the Curtis-Aswell commodity marketing measure in position for consideration as substitutes.

Control of the general debate was divided among the sponsors of the three bills, Chairman Haugen of the agricultural committee, Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas, and Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana.

DOUBT SCHOOL FIRE HAZARDS

Board Believes Recent Inspection Is Hardly Accurate.

Accounting System Proposed to Supplant Annual Report.

The report of the state fire prevention association in regard to conditions prevailing in the city schools aroused a flood of inquiries and resentment in the board of education meeting this morning.

It seems that in spite of all the money expended and the precautions taken, the board is thought to have been negligent in the matter of fire prevention. However, in a few instances panic bolts were recommended in schools that are best equipped to meet fire emergencies, and schools, such as McKinley, where the hazard is greatest, the absence of the panic bolts was not noticed.

The association stated that fire drills have not been held in the high school for eight years. The board will ask Principal French of the high school just what his idea would be in regard to the drills. Heretofore, the faculty at the high school has felt that the hazard of the fire drill in such a building with so many students was far greater than the hazard of a fire itself. The board is inclined to feel that if a fire started in any section of the building there would be at least thirty minutes time to get the youngsters out before it could spread over any great area of the building due to the fact that the building is fire proof with the exception of the equipment.

The intimation that the high school auditorium needed a housecleaning was denied. The high school auditorium was all newly painted last year and, according to the secretary, even the sidewalls are washed often.

To Remedy Situation.

The board will take immediate steps to go to each place tagged by the association and remedy those that they find possible to do anything with. They frankly admit that the criticism offered the shops in the basements of the board

MAN STRUCK BY STREETCAR DIES

Estus Becker, 51, Succumbs Tuesday to Injuries Sustained April 15.

Estus Becker, 51, who was hit by a street car near Twentieth and O streets early the evening of April 15, died Tuesday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital as a result of the fracture at the base of his skull which he suffered in the accident. He was conscious for short times, hospital officials said.

Mr. Becker came to Lincoln from Dallas, Tex., it is said, and gave the address of a sister, Mrs. Frank Berg, as 5318 Lane avenue, Chicago, Ill. The body is at Henry Brown's, pending arrangements.

The man was walking with a crutch the night of the accident, witnesses said, and stepped into the path of a west bound street car about 50 feet east of the Rock Island tracks, after he had apparently stopped to wait for it to pass. The front trucks of the car ran over his arm and he suffered cuts and lacerations in addition to the skull fracture.

Withdraws Offer Farm Implements In Trade For Corn

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—The International Harvester Co.'s offer several weeks ago to trade farm implements to farmers for corn at $1 a bushel to be delivered at the company's option in May, June and July, was terminated last Saturday, the company announced Monday.

Officials said the offer was withdrawn because of lack of faith in the value of corn. May corn sold yesterday at around 71½ cents a bushel. The Harvester officials have until the last day of July to ask for the delivery of the corn and the farmers have thirty days to make the deliveries asked. The company has not asked for the delivery of any corn.

ASK RETRIAL OR A SHORTER TERM

Either a retrial for William Whitehead, convicted in Seward county on the charge of manslaughter, or a reduction of his sentence in the penitentiary from 7 years to the legal minimum, 1 year, is asked by his attorneys in a brief presented to the state supreme court Tuesday. Extenuating circumstances in the case, they assert, justify the lightening of the penalty to that extent.

Emphasis is laid upon the good reputation borne by Whitehead before his altercation with Andrew Blevins which resulted in the latter's death from a blow on the head with a pitchfork. The lawyers say he had provided a good home for his wife and 5 small children and never had serious trouble with anyone; whereas, they assert, Blevins was quarrelsome and had been in frequent difficulties.

The jury it is claimed, was not convinced by the evidence that he ought to go to prison, but was influenced in its verdict by a statement made in the jury room that he had offered to plead guilty to manslaughter. He was tried on a complaint alleging second degree murder.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR UPPER RIVER

Weaver Asks Central West To Get Behind Missouri Project.

OMAHA, May 4.—(AP)—A statement asking support of the middle-west in having the upper Missouri river navigation development project made an "approved project" in the report of the house rivers and harbors committee to congress at this session was issued today by A. J. Weaver, president of the Missouri river navigation association.

The statement is to bolster demand in this section for the approval of the project north of Kansas City and to rally support of the constituents of mid-west congressmen who are conducting the fight at Washington.

Declaring the nation, through approval of the Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland river projects, is committed to the development of the Mississippi valley system, Mr. Weaver's statement declares that the upper Missouri river "which is the greatest feeder of the entire Mississippi system, will suffer an added discrimination if it fails of recognition at this time."

Mr. Weaver asserts that army engineers have found the project very feasible and that feasibility should be the controlling issue with congress in recognizing or disapproving the project.

Calling attention to the far removal from water transportation of the Upper Missouri territory, Mr. Weaver states it is suffering from excessive transportation costs and development of the Missouri "would be not only economic justice, but it is an economic necessity for the future agriculture and industry of this valley."

Citing figures showing increased railroad traffic in eastern regions where waterways have been developed, Mr. Weaver asserts the movement is not a river city movement alone, but is in the interests of the entire area through which the Missouri flows.

French Workers Prepared To Help British Strikers

PARIS, May 4.—(AP)—Leaders of the French mine workers, the railroad men and the dock workers are planning to defeat any attempts which may be made to ship coal to England during the general strike.

A joint meeting of the chiefs of three unions has been called to decide on measures to be taken.

The first signs of the crisis across the channel observable in France has been an invasion of travelers, which is comparable to the Easter, or Whitsuntide exodus from England. All boat trains from Paris yesterday had to be doubled. Some of them arrived two or more hours late.

Aid Promised British Strikers By Workers on the Continent

(By the Associated Press.)

The British general strike has strong reverberations on the continent where organized labor as a whole had shown indications to support the British strikers.

AMSTERDAM—The International Federation of Trade Unions, embracing the unions of twenty-three countries, has announced it will strongly support the British Trades Union congress.

BERLIN—The General Federation of Trade Unions has summoned the executive board to meet tomorrow to decide what course they will follow. The International Workers Relief said to be of communistic inspiration, is collecting funds to aid the British miners.

ROTTERDAM—The transport workers have distributed a manifesto to the dock workers asking them not to assist in loading coal for Great Britain.

ESSEN—The German Miners federation has issued a manifesto saying it will prevent transport of coal from Germany to Great Britain.

PARIS—A joint meeting of the leaders of French mine workers, the railroad men and the dock workers has been called to decide on measures to block attempts to ship coal to England.

BRUSSELS—The Belgian miners will meet Thursday to decide upon action.

BELFAST—There is no crisis in northern Ireland, the only Ulster colliery being still in operation.

DUBLIN—Everything is normal in southern Ireland except that shipping has been affected.

ROME—The newspaper are inclined to be ironical in that Italy, under "tyranny," is making progress in smoothing the relations between capital and labor, while "free" England faces the worst tie-up in its history.

TWO INSURANCE FIRMS APPROVED

State Commissioner Passes On Plans Of Local Concerns.

One Is For Life Insurance, Other Is Reciprocal.

Two new insurance concerns for Lincoln, one of which will operate as a mutual legal reserve life company and the other as a reciprocal or co-operative agency to assume property risks of lumber dealers, have had their plans of organization approved by State Insurance Commissioner Dumont.

The Cosmopolitan Thrift association will engage in the life insurance business. Being a mutual it will issue no capital stock. It is taking applications for policies, of which 200 must be secured before a license is issued. The incorporators are Sterling F. Mutz, Jack Matthews, Charles H. Roper, Harry A. Taylor, R. W. Reynolds, D. H. Campbell, Fenton B. Fleming, Fred Eymer, and Edward C. Fisher.

The Midwest Lumbermen's Inter-Insurance exchange of Lincoln is said to be the first home enterprise launched in Nebraska under provisions of the law enacted some years ago recognizing reciprocal insurance. There are 26 organizations of this kind from other states doing business here.

This corporation was formed as a successor to the Nebraska Lumbermen's Mutual Insurance association, affiliated with the state lumber dealers' association and furnishing protection to its members against loss by fire, lightning, tornado and other causes.

The old insurance association went out of business May 1, and the new inter-insurance exchange took over al its accounts and obligations. It has $2,000,000 of insurance in force, which is $500,000 above the legal requirement for starting business.

Nebraska laws require reciprocal insurance to be conducted by an attorney-in-fact. Another corporation, known as the Lumberman's Service Co., has been formed to function in that capacity. Its officers are: President, Guy L. Harrison, Grand Island; secretary, E. E. Hall, Lincoln; vice president, N. A. Allen, Lincoln. Messrs. Hall and Allen hold the same positions in the Nebraska Lumber Dealers' association.

The two new corporations were organized, Mr. Hall said, in order to change the method of handling insurance risks from the mutual to the reciprocal plan. Their purpose, like that of the old mutual association, is to furnish members of the state association insurance at cost. Operations will not be confined to the state of Nebraska, however, but policies will be issued to dealers in neighboring states who may desire to come in.

Radio Club To Push Plan to Limit Chargers

The Lincoln Radio club Tuesday, through its president, Dale P. Stough, offered to co-operate in every way with the city council in the regulation of vibrator chargers, "but insists upon its program being put into force." The club recommended to the council recently that use of the chargers be restricted between noon and midnight. The council differed, however, and made the hours 6 p. m. to midnight in an ordinance read a first time Monday afternoon.

A communication to the council says that the program of the club was approved "after it had been materially and deliberately passed through the hands of four committees made up of the best radio experts in the city." The hours are too short, the letter says and do not give the women unrestricted use of the radio during the afternoon.

SAY ERADICATION IS PROGRESSING

Annual Report Shows Success Of Bovine Tuberculosis Work.

Five Counties Added to List —Indemnity Totals $117,021.

The work of eradication of tuberculosis among cattle in Nebraska has increased and succeeded during the year 1925 to a highly encouraging degree to the co-operating state and federal agencies in charge of the work, says the annual report for the year issued Tuesday by Chief Hays of the state bureau of animal industry.

More than 22,000 cattle owners, the report says, presented their herds, containing over 314,000 head of cattle, for test, and subscribed to and participated in the sanitary measures laid down for the elimination of the infection.

The work was carried on under three classifications, the report shows, "accredited herd activities," "County area eradication," and "private testing."

Five counties, Butler, Cass, Gage, Polk and Thayer, won the certification as modified accredited areas June 1 to November 2. Twenty counties were declared areas for examination. The re-testing of infected herds, the report continues, was carried on in same manner as the general area work, and is one of the most important phases of the eradication campaign.

Figures are shown for the work for the whole of the United States. Of 722,511 herds tested in the nation, containing 8,032,025 cattle, 251,696 reactors were found.

Reactors, from both private and co-operative tests, were classified as follows: Numbers of no-visible-lesion, 271.

In salvage $103,687.25 was received on 3,934 reactors, or an average of $26.35 a head. As indemnity, the state and federal government paid $53,735.65 and $47,886.16 respectively, a total of $101,621.81, with $15,400 still due. This would make a total indemnity of the year of $117,021.81.

Expenses of the tests were $94,291.73, of which $17,939.68 is chargeable to the counties in which the work was carried on.

Wide Difference In Fat Production Of Different Cows

Twenty-seven cows in one herd in the Lancaster-Seward Cow Testing association averaged 42.1 pounds fat during April. These cows consumed an average of 720 pounds silage, 435 pounds alfalfa hay, 283 pounds corn, and 141 pounds oats at a cost of $10.81.

The low herd averaged 11.2 pounds fat. Feed consumed was 1200 silage, 170 pounds cane and prairie hay, 175 pounds corn and corn meal, and 20 pounds oil meal. Feed cost $8.41.

Will Ask One-way Street to Relieve Viaduct Congestion

The first one-way street in the city will probably be set up by the council next Monday. It will be done at the suggestion of Commissioner Duncan who has asked the legal department to prepare an ordinance restricting the use of O street between Seventh and Eighth street.

When the thoroughfare is restricted to one-way use traffic will proceed west on the north side of the viaduct and return on the south side. Under the present conditions both sides are used for two way traffic and there is always a jam there, he added, and setting up the one-way will eliminate the congestion. Mr. Duncan said he has talked with some of the business men interested and they have endorsed the proposal.

Asks $25,000 For Injuries Received In Auburn Accident

A suit to collect $25,000 damages for injuries suffered in an accident was begun in Federal court Tuesday morning by Anna Doll of Council Bluffs against John Bath of near Auburn, Neb.

According to the petition, Anna Doll was driving in Auburn last October in a wagon, which was drawn by a team of mules, when the wagon was struck by an automobile driven by Bath. As a result of the crash, the mules ran away and the woman was thrown out of the wagon on to the pavement. She suffered spinal injuries and it is for these injuries that she is asking $25,000 in damages.

California Man Is Found Dead On a Train At Kearney

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 4.—Apoplexy is believed to have caused the death of James M. Leaver, assistant to the president of the Pacific Lumber company at Scotia, Cal., whose lifeless body was found by train attendants in a private stateroom on train No. 2, shortly before the train arrived in this city. He was en route to Chicago at the time.

Members of the train crew, noting his absence, forced entrance to his compartment shortly after the train had left Kearney and discovered his body. Death had apparently occurred several hours previous. He was aged about 65 years. The body was removed the train here and sent to Oakland, Cal., for burial.

"I LOVE YOU"

THREE WORDS . . . . three words which burn with youth, with hope, with all things clean and fine. Three words which ring ever youthful throughout our lives. Three words which—alone of all words of which man is master—hold that sovereign magic to mock the slow ebbings of the days, the turnings of the seasons, the endless circlings of the years.

And so it was that at the words, "I'm in love with you, Callista Bayne," everything—pride, hunger, vanity, and fear—was forgotten in the sheltering harbor of a splendid love.

BRAMBLE BUSH, by Stacey Hutchings, is a glorious story of love and youth that calls to the eternal youth that lies in every one of us. Complete in the May Journal, NOW ON SALE, ten cents.

Black Water
By Hugh MacNair Kahler

Even the midday sun, filtering through interwoven branch and creeper, threw but a fitful light on the tangled maze of waterways which made Black Water a name of terror.

A few squatters lurked in its furthest depths—a strange, wild race, capable of even the strangest of that whirl of strange events in which Mark Dutton found himself plunged, once he had looked into the cool, gray eyes of Marian Farre.

BLACK WATER, one of the strongest stories of the year, begins in the May Journal, Now ON SALE, ten cents.

How Harold Lloyd Makes You Laugh

Tonight tens of thousands will laugh and thrill at the antics of a tall, solemn, young man with great horn-rimmed spectacles.

Yet how much keener would be their interest if they but knew the tremendous amount of brains and thought that goes into the making of one of these comedies.

Here, in this fascinating article, Harold Lloyd tells you the whole story. Starting with the years before he arrived at stardom, he outlines everything—and even reveals some interesting details of the making of his latest picture. Complete in the May Journal, Now ON SALE, ten cents.

Other Features in the May Journal

Four splendid short stories, four novels and a one-act play swell the list of fiction to a total of eleven. And all by such favorite authors as Booth Tarkington, Zane Grey, Albert Payson Terhune, Sophie Kerr, and Elsie Singmaster.

Maude Adams continues her own wonderful story of her life and art. The Princess Cantacuzène writes on Russia and its refugees. S. Josephine Baker, M.D., pleads for a proper home for every child. Corra Harris and Alice Ames Winter share with you their treasured experience with life. And Giulio Gatti-Casazza tells of his thirty years in opera.

Fourteen fashion features picture your summer wardrobe. A round dozen of articles—and two over for good measure—help you with your housekeeping, your needlework, and your home-making. Five art features and half a dozen poems minister to your love of the beautiful; and, for the children—and all who love them—there are Rose O'Neill's adorable Kewpies.

SMITH ENTITLED TO DEPUTY'S PAY

Richardson County Board Loses Fight On Sheriff's Office.

(Special to the Star.)

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 4.—Late Monday afternoon Judge John Raper held that Deputy Sheriff A. S. Smith was entitled to pay as deputy sheriff of Richardson county and that the county board with whom Smith fell out over a claim two years ago had no right to "discharge" him.

Late last fall the board passed a motion arbitrarily "firing" Smith and announced it would honor no more claims for his duties as deputy sheriff.

Sheriff A. R. Young ordered him to continue his duties and since then Richardson county has been served by a deputy sheriff whom the county board would not recognize.

Smith's case in court Monday covered back pay for August, September, October and November.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Workers in four Pacific coast cities today sought to adjust disputes with employers. More than 5,000 men are out in San Francisco, Vancouver, B. C., Portland and Astoria, Ore.

The strike situation here, resulting when 4,000 carpenters walked out three weeks ago, reached a focal point yesterday when the board of supervisors instructed the chief of police to discontinue assigning policemen to guard construction projects.

Radio Club Hears Omaha Announcer At Meeting Monday

Eugene Konecky, announcer at Omaha radio station WOAW, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Lincoln Radio club Monday evening at the Elks club building. Following him, Ben Elliott, R. M. Hayes and E. F. Cocklin spoke on the operation of three types of sets. The club expressed itself strongly opposed to an ordinance prohibiting the operation of vibratory charges from 6 o'clock to midnight, as against its original recommendation for prohibition from noon until midnight.

Announcing is yet in an experimental stage, Mr. Konecky said. Wave lengths, time schedules and program arrangements are matters of station policy, he said, and declared that the problem of telegrams, dedication and all letters would solve themselves. He said it is the duty of the radio station to maintain itself financially, since it is civic enterprise rather than one of a private company.

At the next meeting, to be held Monday 17, Rev. R. R. Brown, Omaha "radio pastor," will address the club at the Elks club building.

ROTTERDAM—(AP)—The Rotterdam Transport Workers federation Monday distributed a manifesto to dock workers and exporting men directing them not to assist in loading coal for Great Britain after today. They were also directed not to assist in bunkering vessels which under normal conditions would have bunkered in British ports.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

The United States Rubber Company regularly employs 20,000 people on its plantations in the Far East. These plantations comprise about 136,000 acres and produced 20,000,000 pounds of rubber in 1925.

Answering some more questions about the United States Rubber Company's Rubber Plantations

Q—When did the United States Rubber Company first start to grow its own rubber?

A—In 1911 the company planted 14,000 acres, or about 22 square miles, in Sumatra. This represented then and still does, the largest planting operation completed by any one company in a single year.

As new property has been acquired the work has gone steadily forward until today the company has 136,000 acres, approximately 60% of which are already planted.

Q—Does it take long to grow a rubber tree?

A—It takes about 4 to 6 years from the time a seedling is planted until a tree is ready to be tapped, and its initial yield is only small.

Clearing the jungle, removing stumps, draining the land, breaking and preparing the ground, growing seedlings from selected seeds, budding, grafting, transplanting and carefully tending the young plants, to say nothing of building roads, railways, wharves, storage tanks, and buildings to house power plants, equipment, and employees in a wild tropical country—all take time and money.

Q—Why did the United States Rubber Company make this investment?

A—Because it foresaw the time coming when in the interest of greater economy and better and more uniform quality it would be advisable for it to know all there was to know about rubber growing and to be producing a considerable portion of its own rubber. Recent events have justified this far-sighted policy, and every man who buys a United States Tire or any other United States Rubber Company product is today benefiting by it.

Q—Is the United States Rubber Company Plantation well regarded by authorities on rubber?

A—Yes. Herbert Ashplant, the British Rubber Mycologist of Southern India, in his report entitled "Recent Developments in the Rubber Planting Industry", referring to the United States Rubber Company Plantation at Kisaran, Sumatra, says:

"Of all the areas visited, none produced so much useful information. Kisaran, the headquarters of these plantations, has become the Mecca of all planters who wish to keep abreast of recent rubber research. It is astonishing to find how many of the familiar problems of rubber planting have been satisfactorily settled by the researches of the scientific staff."

4 out of 5

is grim pyorrhea's count

DENTAL STATISTICS tell this grim story: four people out of every five are destined, through neglect, to contract pyorrhea after they pass the age of forty. Thousands younger also suffer.

Pyorrhea is the dread disease of the gums which is responsible often for loss of teeth, rheumatism, neuritis and other dangerous disorders.

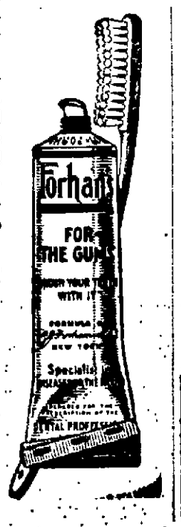

It starts with tender bleeding gums. Pockets form below the teeth and poisons spread relentlessly through the body. If you have pyorrhea or any of its symptoms see your dentist at once and start brushing your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums.

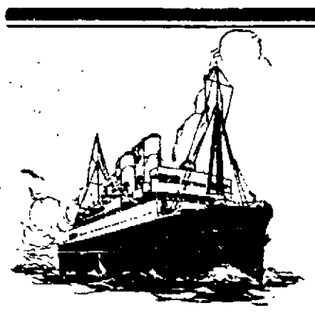

To safeguard yourself against pyorrhea make Forhan's your regular dentifrice. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., and contains his pyorrhea liquid which has been used by dentists the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea. If used regularly and used in time it will prevent pyorrhea or check its course. Don't give this insidious disease a chance to start. Start using Forhan's this very day. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

FARM RELIEF HAS ITS DAY IN COURT

Haugen, Tincher and Curtis-Aswell Bills Come Up In House Tuesday.

Rainey, Illinois, Gives Support to Haugen Price Stabilization Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Farm relief legislation, waiting in the ante room for six months, will have its day in court beginning today when the house takes up the three bills reported by its agriculture committee.

Under a special rule providing four days of general debate, the Haugen price stabilization bill will be called up and the other two measures—the Tincher credit plan, supported by Secretary Jardine and the Curtis-Aswell national commodity marketing proposal — will be in order as substitutes. Debating will be controlled equally by authors of the three bills.

Last minute conferences of various house factions were held Monday in an effort to line up support for one bill or another. Endorsement of the Haugen bill was announced by Representative Rainey of Illinois, chairman of an unofficial committee appointed at a meeting of fifty house democrats to investigate farm relief legislation. Mr. Rainey explained, however, that he was not speaking for the committee, which had not yet reported. He said an advisory report for the information of democratic members probably would be made today, although there was no intention of holding a party caucus on the question.

Caucus Not Favored.

Democratic members of the house agriculture committee said it was not a partisan issue and they also saw no reason for a caucus. They are divided on the pending bills.

The Haugen and Tincher bills propose substantial appropriations, the former $375,000,000 to maintain adequate prices for basic commodities, and the latter $100,000,000 for loans to farmers' co-operative associations. The Curtis-Aswell measure, which contemplates having the farmers finance themselves, would authorize a $10,000,000 loan for administrative purposes.

Representative Tincher issued a statement contrasting his bill with the Haugen measure, terming the Haugen bill a price-fixing proposal. Tincher said:

"There can be no denying that this is a straight out government subsidy plan. Great Britain has tried the subsidy until conditions are chaotic there today. No witness testifying before the agriculture committee ever endorsed the subsidy plan."

The Kansas representative said the purpose of his measure was "to establish the prices of farm products by disposing of surpluses through orderly marketing."

If a child doesn't like oatmeal, win over with famous "Quaker Flavor"

THE reason some children don't eat their oatmeal without urging is that they're not given the right kind.

There is a great difference in the flavor of oats. And flavor, above all things, is needed to win a child's appetite.

Quaker Oats has a unique flavor; a rich and toasty flavor you'll find in no other brand. That is why millions will accept no other kind.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats—which makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamines and this "bulk" make Quaker Oats an excellent food balance.

Today, get Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes), or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known them. Grocers have both kinds.

Two New Courses At Wesleyan Uni.

Prof. E. R. Lewis addressed the students of Nebraska Wesleyan University at convocation Monday morning. He explained two new new plans which are to go into effect next fall, a general reading course and freshman week.

The aim of the reading course is to acquaint students with what people are doing in many fields. This course is to be open only to juniors and seniors. The student who desires to take this course is to read books in subjects of which he has had less than twelve hours work. The reading may be done at any time, during the school year or during vocation. Freshman week includes helpful lectures which will acquaint the student with his new environment. It will show him the aims of the institution and the purpose of college life.

COUPLE SENTENCED

Mrs. Janie Kesterson and Fred McCarter were sentenced Monday afternoon in District court to 30 days each in the county jail on charges of adultery. Part of their sentences have already been served. Mrs. McCarter said her husband deserted her, that her children are now in a home at Lincoln, and that she wants to get a divorce so she can marry McCarter.

It Will Stay.
Science, a Builder.
A New Glass Wanted.
Touching Men's Vices.

By Arthur Brisbane.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of Columbia university, says "the Anti-saloon league is the most pernicious foe of this republic," and wants prohibition taken out of the constitution.

Dr. Butler and the Anti-saloon league, both able fighters, will enjoy fighting it out. But prohibition will not come out of the constitution for many a year, if ever.

It took the big war to put prohibition into the constitution. It will take more than a war to get it out. Thirty-six out of forty-eight states will not 'vote wet," in this generation or the next. But each state may make its own "enforcement laws."

Julian Huxley, grandson of the great scientist asks, "Will science destroy religion?" writes a long, valuable article on the subject, but does not answer his question.

That, however, is not important. Voltaire answered, when he said, "If there had been no God, it would have been necessary to invent one."

Men cannot live intelligently, without religion. Even the atheist has a religion, which is intense admiration of his own intellectual ability. Religion is everywhere but it has changed as men have changed.

The savage hammers his head on the ground in front of an idol with a pink nose and green teeth.

The Chistian ascetic moved into the desert, lived in a state of filth in his cave, thinking he was pleasing the Almighty by not washing himself, and thns he strove to save his own little soul, "and the devil take the hindmost."

The higher type of Christian moves into the slums, to help and save others.

Real religion will eliminate competition, put emulation in its place and thus gradually eliminate poverty and ignorance.

Religion, older than science, will live as long as science. Science will improve religion and religion will make science more useful to men, compelling industrial science for instance, to protect children, instead of putting them to work in a scientific cotton mill.

Science does not destroy religion or anything else. It creates.

Henry Ford believes in making everything he needs, which doesn't mean lack of respect for specialists, just the contrary, he hires, directs and controls the specialists.

He tells how he went into glass-making, and did, as usual, what people thought he couldn't do. He succeeded, and cut costs.

Mr. Ford, however, hasn't yet done with glass what he ought to do, and probably will do. He hasn't put in his automobile a glass that doesn't shatter and cut people's throats in any slight collision.

Glass that won't shatter and is safe can be made. It ought not to be very expensive. Mr. Moskovics puts an expensive kind in the windshields of his roadsters. Henry Ford and other big manufacturers should do it in all automobile glassware, or at least give the buyer the option of paying more for safe glass.

Tax a man's labor or income, he stands it with mild grumbling. But try to control his vices, or personal pleasures, and you make trouble. We discovered that in prohibition. Winston Churchill actually jeopardizes the existence of his party with a proposed tax on British bookmakers and race gambling.

It would be worse still, if, in Britain, instead of taxing it, they tried to stop race track gambling, as we tried here—with disastrous lack of success—to stop whiskey drinking.

A British gambling tax would run into millions, and you read, with surprise, that Britain's "United Council of Christian Churches has joined with the book makers, 'organizing mass meetings to fight the tax on gambling." Explain that and you can explain anything.

Race track gambling, as every employer knows, makes thieves of many young men. Others know that it makes many women disreputable.

However, the action of British churches in actively protecting public gamblers from taxation, is no more regrettable than the inaction of American churches, passively allowing race track gambling and "legalized" prize fighting to continue in this country. They could stop it. Politicians want the race track, and prize fight graft, but they fear the clergy. That's why so many drink bootleg whiskey, and vote for prohibition.

Mrs. Benninghoven, recently mentioned in this column, writes from the "New Jerusalem Colony" in Santa Cruz county, California: "I am not a medium, never have been. I have the vision of God, without which God said the people perished. Honest mediumship is good in its place, but its place is a very elementary one."

Mrs. Benninghoven, who signs herself "Jewish Christian," asks "Will thee not try to undo the wrong thee have, perhaps unwittingly, done me?"

Certainly, the correction is cheerfully made.

Two Drivers Hurt As Cars Collide

Ray Carroll, special agent for the Burlington railroad was slightly injured and A. Schasse, 824 P street, was cut on the hand when the cars they were driving mixed on the West O street road Monday evening.

Carroll was cut on the head and bruised. He was turning off the road in his Ford sedan when he collided with Schasse, driving a large car east. Schasse received a cut on one hand. Both the cars were badly damaged.

Two other automobiles were smashed in a collision at Thirteenth and D streets later in the evening. The drivers, James F. Lawrence, 2209 B street, and Henry Blase, 1927 F street escaped injury.

STRYCHNINE IS FOUND IN BODY OF MRS. DAVIS

Doctor Who Conducted Second Autopsy Testifies In Murder Trial, Telling Results Of His Investigations.

M'COOK, Neb., May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Final testimony of the prosecution in its attempt to convict Bert M. Davis of Beaver City, on a charge of poisoning his first wife so he could remarry, was being presented here today.

Findings of chemists who examined the vital organs that were removed from the body of Mrs. Blanche Davis last Friday night, were expected to practically complete the state's case.

Approximately one-eighth of a grain of poison was found in the organs, Dr. John T. Myer of the University of Nebraska college of medicine, Omaha, who conducted the examination, testified yesterday.

The prosecution maintains that Mrs. Davis died from the effects of poison that Davis fed her so he could marry Mrs. Kate Resler, a neighbor whom he married four months after his wife's death, while the defense contends she died from the effects of an abortive medicine, self administered.

Dr. Myer, assisted by Dr. Harold Eggers, performed the post-mortem examination Sunday of the vital organs which were removed from Mrs. Davis' body at Beaver City late last Friday night.

Defense counsel on cross examination of Dr. Myer, brought out that persons had recovered from strychnine poisoning when three, five and even six grains had been swallowed.

Sheriff Tells Story.

Sheriff W. E. Bratt of Beaver City, was called by the state. He testified to a conversation he had with Davis last January at a Lincoln hotel when he first informed Davis of the investigation into the death of Mrs. Davis. Davis and Mrs. Kate Resler-Davis, whom he married December 29, 1925, were living in Lincoln at that time.

"We told him (Davis) that we were making an investigation into the death of his first wife," Sheriff Bratt said.

"He told me that Mrs. Davis before her death, had experienced a change in life. He said he found his wife sick one day. He wanted to call a doctor, but Mrs. Davis said, 'No, let me die.'

"On the morning of her death, Davis said he awoke about 5 a. m. and sat up with her about a half hour. Then he went to sleep again. Mrs. Davis woke him up. She told him she was sick and had pains in the back of her head. Dr. Copeland was called and gave her a shot (a hypodermic administration). Copeland asked Davis' permission to give her chloroform. Glenn Davis (Davis' son) was called. He went to the telegraph station to summon relatives. Shortly after he left his mother died," Sheriff Bratt said Davis told him.

Says Women Friendly.

"Mrs. Davis, he told me," the the sheriff said, "objected to his smoking in the house and she declared if it wasn't for the children she would leave. He said Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Resler were friendly and only once was Mrs. Davis jealous of Mrs. Resler. This was at a kissing party at a neighbor's house. Coming home, Kate sat between Mrs. Davis and him, and his wife later mentioned it to him. He said he told her that if she did not want Kate Resler along with them not to ask her any more. The two women remained friendly."

"At the time of Mrs. Davis' death she and Kate were making dresses alike," Davis told Sheriff Bratt, he testified, "that he had never been out alone with Kate Resler."

Defense counsel declared that Sheriff Bratt had corroborated Davis 'own story of the events leading up to the death of his wife.

Mrs. Mary Escher, 60, a neighbor, was called to the stand. She said she saw Mrs. Davis "most every day," and said the woman was "fine and dearly loved her children."

"Mrs. Davis told me she was experiencing a change in life," said Mrs. Escher.

H. R. Pfeiffer, an operative for a national detective agency, who is said to have "worked up" the case, testified he visited Davis in Lincoln, January 27, 1926, and that he took down in shorthand a statement by Davis covering the history of the case. Pfeiffer consulted his note book when he was uncertain about dates and so forth.

He testified that letters, allegedly written by Davis to Mrs. Resler were shown him in the home of Allan Kinsman at Beaver City.

HOUSE ENTERS A PLEA OF GUILTY

Broken Bow Man Admits Four Charges; Sentence Is Deferred.

BROKEN BOW, Neb., May 4.—(AP)—Nate J. House pleaded guilty Monday afternoon to six of eight charges filed against him. The charge of embezzlement of funds from the Public Service club of Broken Bow was one of the two charges to which he entered a plea of not guilty. Judge B. O. Hostettler deferred the sentence until later in this court term.

House also denied a charge of embezzling a mortgage release on the Morgan farm property near here.

The counts to which he pleaded guilty were:

Myers-Rainbol company, Omaha, $2,000.

E. R. Booth, farmer, living near Broken Bow, $2,000.

Four counts in connection with a check from the Tecumseh Building & Loan association, made payable to Roy H. Smith.

House, who has been out on bond of $12,500 since his return from Vancouver, B. C., was represented by his counsel, H. T. Wilson. House's wife, his mother, Mrs. Susie House of California and Mrs. H. R. Knatt, sister-in-law, were in court when he entered his pleas of guilt.

Order Arrest Of S. Saklatvala For 'Seditious' Speech

LONDON., May 4.—(AP)—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Shapurji Saklatvala, communist member of the house of commons, on a charge of making a seditious speech in Hyde park Sunday, the Westminster Gazette said yesterday.

Saklatvala, who is the only communist member of the house of commons, came into notice in the United States last year when the department of state barred his entrance to the United States as a revolutionist. He had been appointed a representative of Great Britain at the international parliamentary conference at Washington, but abandoned his visit when Secretary Kellogg announced he would be barred.

The Civil Liberties union in the United States protested against his exclusion, but President Coolidge endorsed the ban on him.

SUSPEND PAPER OF VANDERBILT

Young Millionaire Publisher Unable To Get Financial Aid.

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Illustrated Daily News, tabloid newspaper founded here two and a half years ago by Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., was published today under receivership.

Following failure of the publisher to obtain financial assistance, due, he declared in a New York statement last night, to unfavorable reports emanating from the eastern critics, attorneys for Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc., filed a bill in equity in Federal court asking that a receiver be appointed.

Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc., is the holding company for the three Vanderbilt tabloids in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Miami, Fla.

Attorneys for the local paper immediately filed an answer, admitting the contention set forth in the petitioning bill and joined in the request for appointment of a receiver. The court appointed Meredith P. Snyder, former mayor of Los Angeles, as receiver.

The San Francisco Daily Illustrated Herald later was ordered suspended.

Kleen-Heet

Engineered to a Standard— Built Complete at the Factory

"Engineered to a standard." To do one job only—and to do it perfectly—to heat homes. To provide always, regardless of weather, just the right heat, at the right time. To operate without the expert supervision given industrial oil burners—but to be instead, wholly automatic. To be quiet, odorless, clean. To be unfailingly and instantly efficient. To be genuinely economical.

This, in Kleen-Heet, is both an ideal and an actuality. For not only is Kleen-Heet "engineered to a standard." It is also "Built complete at the factory." Kleen-Heet's efficiency does not depend upon complicated installation. Nothing is left to artisans unskilled in the science of heating. In Kleen-Heet, everything necessary to efficient operation in your home comes in-built, according to engineers' specifications.

That is why, through more than six years, Kleen-Heet has so remarkable a record of performance. In homes of every size—and in every type of heating plant.

WOMAN'S EDUCATIONAL CLUB HOLDS MEETING.

A state meeting of the Nebraska Woman's Educational club was held in Lincoln Saturday, May 1.

Preceding the business meeting was the luncheon at the Lincoln hotel. One hundred women educators from all parts of the state were present.

The principal address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Mary C. C. Bradford, state superintendent of Colorado and a member of the executive board of the World Federation of National Education associations. Mrs. Bradford was the second woman to be elected as president of the National Educational association. The subject of her address was "Teachers' Annuities and Tenure." She made a strong plea for safe and sane annuity laws for every state in the union. More than one-half of the states have laws, and the others are rapidly working toward such legislation. The Nebraska legislature has not yet passed a teachers' retirement or annuity law, but the question is being studied.

The League of Women Voters were represented by Mrs. J. H. Dietrich of Hastings, president; Mrs. Stoutenburgh, of the first congressional district and the Lincoln unit. Mrs. Dietrich outlined some of the important legislation now pending in congress, legislation in which educational forces as well as the league are interested.

In the absence of Mrs. Minier, state president of the Federation of Women's clubs, who sent cordial greetings, Mrs. F. C. Cole of Omaha, chairman of civil service department, spoke briefly of their work, and pledged the co-operation of that club in matters of mutual interest.

Due to the unavoidable absence of Mrs. G. H. Wentz, state president of the Parent Teachers' association, Superintendent Maud Berry of Lincoln, as chairman of the committee of education, spoke briefly of the work being undertaken by that organization.

Greetings were also read from Mrs. Granthom of Kearney, state president of the P. E. O.

Following Mrs. Bradford's address a short business session was held, with Miss Hosic, president, in the chair.

Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, chairman of the N. E. A. committee of one hundred on teachers' retirement allowances or annuities, reported that the committee expects to bring out a report in July, which will give a survey of the whole field in the United States. This report will be [published] by the N. E. A. and will be available to all interested in educational progress.

Miss Olivia Pound, chairman of the legislative committee of the Nebraska Woman's Educational club, made a brief report.

A committee was appointed to revise the list of members and to make card index of the membership, such committee to consist of Miss Gertrude Jones of Lincoln, Miss Cora O'Connell of Kearney, and Miss Florence Antonides of North Platte.

The following committee on publicity was appointed: Miss Elizabeth Cather of Lincoln, chairman; Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle and Miss Jennie B. Adams of Lincoln; Miss Mary Crawford of Kearney; Miss Elizabeth Shaffer of Omaha.

The president was authorized by the club to appoint the delegates to the delegate assembly of the National Educational association, with recommendation that Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle be made one of the delegates.

The action of the executive committee was confirmed with reference to holding the next meeting of the Nebraska Woman's Educational club at the time and place of the next state delegate assembly.

The officers of the club are Miss Alma Hosic, Kearney State Teachers college, president; Miss Cora O'Connell, Kearney State Teachers college, secretary; Miss Florence Antonides, North Platte, treasurer.

At the luncheon the officers of the club and those taking part in the program were seated at one long table, and other members and guests were seated at small round tables. The tables were decorated with Maypols and dainty place cards.

The committee in charge of the dinner consisted of Miss Jennie B. Adams and Miss Celia P. Kirker of Lincoln. The decorating committe consisted of Principal Martha Hutton, Principal Katherine Follmer, Miss Elizabeth Smith, and Miss Clara J. VanTuyl of Lincoln. Miss Annette Abbott directed the singing of "peppy" selections during the luncheon.

TAXES DECREASE; EXPENSES HIGHER

Change In Automobile Licenses Lessens County's Income.

Lancaster county's tax collections for the first four months of 1926 were lower and its expenditures were higher than during the same period of 1925.

Total collections for that period were $1,128,299 in 1925 and only $1,957,346 this season; expenditures for 1925 were $1,167,525, and for 1926, $1,282,491. The discrepancy in auto tax collections, due to a lower rate, accounts for a large share of the lowered receipts. For the last four months receipts were but $202,677, while in 1925 they were $220,929.

Tax collections during the past month have been looking up and were $476,921, against $472,048 in 1925.

Boy Steps Into Path of Car; Is Not Badly Hurt

Five-year-old George Baxter stepped out from behind a water wagon which he was following at Sixteenth and South streets Tuesday noon into the path of a motor car. He was struck down, but not seriously hurt. He received bruises about the head and arms.

The car which struck the boy, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Baxter, 2140 St. Mary's avenue, was driven by Mrs. Fred Walt, 2330 Woodcrest avenue. She reported the accident to police.

The boy said that he was following the water wagon "just for fun." He stepped out from behind it and it was impossible for Mrs. Walt to avoid striking him, according to the boy's mother.

The man who drove the water wagon took the boy to his home.

CLAIM CHARITY WORK HANDLED

General Hospital Board Says Free Cases Amounted To $600.

The board of directors of the Lincoln General hospital met informally with the city council Monday afternoon, at the suggestion of Mayor Zehrung, and discussed hospital affairs.

The discussion was informal and revealed that the hospital last year handled a number of charity patients at a cost in excess of $600, in addition to caring for others charted as "bad accounts" to the extent of approximately $700. These latter patients were considered by the board as charity cases.

It was also brought out that it is the policy of the hospital management to care for charity cases just as fast as the association has the funds to do so. This may be soon, it is said, as it is expected that endowments and funds are to be available from sources, some of which the board did not care to reveal.

It was suggested that arrangements be made with the community chest or welfare organizations whereby the hospital may be apprised of cases that come within the classification of "worthy poor," and J. L. Teeters said that the board would be willing to co-operate fully under such an agreement.

These members of the board attended the conference: J. L. Teeters, J. E. Miller, W. R. Mellor, Mrs. R. E. Moore, Mrs. Louise Westerman, Sam Wessel, and Miss Ida Robbins.

Begin Work to Cut Dangerous Corners Back

A force of paving repair men Tuesday started cutting back the southwest corner of Twenty-seventh and J streets to widen that turn to 10 feet between the car line and the curb. "This is one of the most dangerous corners in the city," City Engineer Erickson said. "and we are cutting it back as a part of the public safety program initiated by the council several months ago."

As soon as this corner is finished the southwest corner of Tenth and Charleston streets will be widened in a similar manner. The northeast corner of Thirteenth and High and the southwest corner of Eleventh and South streets already have been cut back.

The widening of L street west of Thirty-third street is under way. A part of the street department force has been given to the engineer to expedite the work.

Hundreds of persons gathered at the Saac farm to watch efforts of more than a score of workers to recover the body. The treacherous sand at times threatened to bury the entire working shift in the well, but heavy timber braces placed every few feet successfully withstood the pressure of sand.

'$14.98, as advertised'

"How do you spell 'financially'?" asked a college student of his room-mate.

"F-i-n-a-n-c-i-a-l-l-y," said the room-mate, spelling out the word slowly. As an afterthought, he added: "And 'embarrassed' has two r's and two s's."

How often have you said to a salesman, "That's more than I care to pay?" If you had known the price in advance, you would have been spared this little embarrassment. That's one of the great services rendered by newspaper advertising.

By reading the advertisements before going to the stores, you know what you will have to pay for an article. You need not reveal your financial status to a salesman. You perhaps do not like to ask the price of goods anyhow. If the merchant has told you the price in his advertisement, you do not have to ask.

Any way you figure it out, it pays to read the advertisements. Regularly! The one advertisement you skip may contain just the news you would have welcomed. Read all the advertisements you can. Keep informed.

The intelligent way to shop is to read the advertisements and then go to the stores that offer the best values. Make notes beforehand of the articles that interest you. That's the way to get the most for your money. That's the way to save ime.

When you know the price in advance, you can ask to be shown the goods "as advertised"

"In this crisis in the economic life of England," the resolution said, "capitalistic ownership of [illegible] industry as well as the political leadership of British capitalism has become archaic, incompetent and disastrous."

HOW THE PILGRIM MOTHER

Kept Her Family in Good Health

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her family. When they were ill, she brewed remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Massachusetts woman writes: "I was all run-down, with no ambition. I was tired all the time. Sometimes I would be in bed two or three days at a time, and the doctor would have to give me something to quiet me. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have had wonderful results from it. I felt better after taking the second bottle, and I am never without it in the house now. I have told lots of people about it, and they say it helps them, too." —Mrs. J. W. Crutchett, 2 Hammond Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Bird Notes

Despite the cold and rather backward spring and the fact that the vegetation is a little late this year, the May bird migrants are arriving right on time. Baltimore and orchard orioles, rose-breasted grosbeaks, warbling vireos, catbirds, kingbirds and yellow warblers all arrived as usual the first day of May. At the same time many birds are nesting or are choosing nesting sites. Our people are anxiously awaiting to see if the wrens will occupy their boxes, cardinals and red-winged blackbirds already have eggs and young and the piping plovers are trying to decide whether they will nest on the shore of Capitol Beach lake again this year as they have been doing the past few years.

Eighty species of birds were observed last Sunday by various members of the Bruner Bird club, and the golden plover, white-rumped sandpiper, Traill flycatcher, bay-colored sparrow and palm warbler were recorded for the first time this spring. The golden plover is a rather rare migrant, but several individuals of this beautiful bird were observed. Of unusual interest also was the recording of a very large gull at Capitol Beach lake on Thursday. The bird was seen by several people and identified as the glaucous gull, the largest North American gull with one exception. It measures thirty-eight inches from the tip of the bill to the tip of the tail. The bird only very rarely comes as far south as Nebraska, being typically an Arctic species, but it has been recorded as far south during the winter months as San Francisco bay. This species has probably not before been noted in this state.

The cries of northward moving shore birds were very audible for several hours Saturday night. The cry of the willet was especially noticeable and the following morning found many flocks of them shore of Salt Lake west of Lincoln or feeding in the nearby fields with Franklin gulls and black-bellied and golden plovers. Yellow-headed blackbirds have also been abundant migrants this spring. Other birds arriving last week were the barn swallow, Bell and blue-headed vireos, spotted sandpiper, Forster tern, eared grebe, Sprague pipit, white-throated sparrow, Maryland yellow throat, black-crowned night heron, dickcissel and Smith Longspur.

The following two weeks will see the climax of bird migration for this year.

CHAPTER X.

What Has Gone Before. Carolita Merendez, a beautiful young Spanish girl brought up in a South American convent, is traveling alone to Los Angeles at the command of her guardian whom she had never seen. During the last lap of her journey between Chicago and Los Angeles she wakes suddenly in the night to see, clutching the curtains of the berth opposite, a white hand wearing a gorgeous ruby. In the morning she learns that a man has been found in one of the berths, apparently murdered. It is then discovered that Carolita made the journey from South America on the same steamer with the dead man and that he annoyed her with his advances. Paul Reynolds, a young New York lawyer who became acquainted with Carolita on the train, found the strange ruby ring, when it is found on the floor, in order to protect Carolita, because he fears it belongs to her. But when he attempts to return it to the girl she declares it is not hers and later he perceives that the ruby is half of a heart suggesting that there must be a companion ring. Reynolds admits acquaintance with a Mr. and Mrs. Brown who left the train late in the evening after being seen in conversation with the dead man. It is then learned that the so-called Mr. Brown is really Walter Reynolds, brother of Paul Reynolds, although they had not met in ten years due to a family quarrel. Walter and his father had quarreled many years before, about the father's second wife. Frank Hyatt, the Los Angeles attorney for Reynolds' firm, board the train in answer to a wire and relates that Walter Reynolds' brother, has notified the firm he has an important time concerning their father's will about which there is some mystery. Hyatt fears that Reynolds may become connected with the murder both because of his claiming the mysterious ring which did not belong to him and because his brother was seen talking with the dead man.

MIRON T. GAINES.

Frank hesitated.

"Well," he said at length, "you are in a mighty tight place—you might as well be prepared for the worst."

Frank's plain statement of the danger of his present position did much to steady Paul and make him look his predicament in the face. He was obliged to admit that Frank had spoken the bitter truth and in addition his heart was more securely trapped than Frank's wildest dreams could imagine. He was deeply irrevocably infatuated with Carolita. It was going to be difficult to look after her while Frank insisted upon taking the matter in this practical unsympathetic way, and yet it would be absolutely necessary for him to watch over the girl, for with every passing moment he became more convinced that the dead man was her guardian. The mysterious rings, his means of identification. Just what his reasons had been for concealing his identity Paul could not fathom, but the more he pondered the matter, the more certain he became that the girl must have somewhere in her possession the companion ring, and would wear it upon her finger when giving the signal already described by her. The first thing to be done was to get rid of Frank and question her about the ring, and then he remembers that she had been thoroughly searched at the hands of a maid and reported to have no jewels. At this point in his reflections a man entered the diner and with a swift glance around took his place at the small table opposite Carolita.

"Frank," Paul exclaimed, "that is the man I spoke of, the stranger who saw Walter and his wife in the club car in company with the dead man. Here is his card. He has an office in Los Angeles. Do you know him?"

"Myron T. Gaines—Broadway," Frank read from the card. "Well of all things! Why didn't we see him while we're going through the train, Paul? He's the very man we want!"

"Who is he?"

"Well, in plain language he's one of the cleverest detectives in the country, though he doesn't call himself that. He's a professional investigator for banks and big business in general, a sort of specialist in running down clues. Nothing could be more fortunate than our meeting with him. I'll ask him to join us in the smoking room when he has finished dinner."

"In our car, Frank. I don't care to leave Carolita."

"See here, Paul, aren't you letting your heart run away with your head? What do you know of this girl? Haven't you sense enough to know that her story is absolutely impossible from every point of view? Girl's aren't innocent in this day and age. Don't you realize that she proved mighty clever in helping you to identify that ring to the conductor, even giving you the words that were in it? A man of your money and position, to say nothing of your good looks, has no business mixing up in such adventures. You'll be hooked for a million dollars damage before you know it! It's a mighty good thing you wired me! I declare, you behave like a child in arms!"

"Oh shut up!" Paul retorted crossly, "you're about as romantic as a string bean, and I'll be responsible for my own actions. Do you suppose I haven't thought things over?"

"A man who falls as hard as you've fallen doesn't think, he just squirms! What are you going to do with her anyway? Adopt her? Fine time you'll have explaining to the conductor why you are taking your baby home."

"Somebody has to care for that girl, Frank. Even you admit that the dead man must have been her guardian, and that there will be nobody to meet her in Los Angeles. What is the poor child to do? Walk the streets?"

"And just what do you propose to do with her?"

"Take her to Mrs. Reynolds, of course."

"And supposing that Mrs. Reynolds is in Santa Barbara, although she wired me from this train—what are you going to do with this girl upon our arrival in Los Angeles at one o'clock tomorrow morning? Take her to a hotel? Oh yes!"

"My God, Frank," Paul turned upon his desperately, "can't you be human for half a second and put yourself in this child's place? Would you abandon her under the circumstances, would you?"

"To hand her over to those Salvation Army Lasses I saw in your car. She already knows them, they are her natural protection under the circumstances. The conductors will be willing, and your responsibility entirely imaginary, I assure you, my boy, will cease. Now let's go back to the telegram from Mrs. Reynolds. Do you think Walter sent it as a joke?" But he was speaking to empty air, for Carolita had arisen precipitately from her seat and hurried from the diner. Paul in his wake. "Oh Lord!" Frank concluded, adding one small expressive word, "Hell!" Then gathering up what remained of his dinner he proceeded to join Gaines at the adjoining table.

"Hello," he said casually, "looking for you."

"I saw you get on," Gaines returned equally casually, "I was just waiting to catch you alone. What's going on here?"

"You know more about that than I do! Who are you trailing?"

Gaines shrugged his shoulders.

"That man's death was most unfortunate for the Reynolds brothers," he commented, "especially as they were both travelling under assumed names."

"Come now Gaines, don't stall. You know all about Paul, he's absolutely O. K. and Edmund Reynolds was a good friend to you always, and paid you well for what you did for him. The boy's been involved in a miserable business and lost his head over the girl. Who is she? An adventuress, a Hollywood star? For goodness sake let me in. You know everybody."

"What's your interest in the case?"

"I'm looking after Paul Reynolds. How then, was the man murdered?"

"Funny thing that there is not a doctor on the train! I examined the body closely, fact is I was making a thorough investigation of it when you came aboard. There is no sign of any violence but you can't get away from the broken chain about his neck. Something was on that chain. What was it and who took it? That's the case in a nut shell."

"What's going to happen?"

"Nothing until the coroner decides the cause of death. After that—" he made an expressive gesture.

"I understand that everybody in the car has been thoroughly searched and no clue of any kind found."

"Searched by a train crew, yes."

"You mean that they could have been evaded?"

"Of course! There are any number of hiding places in a Pullman, and besides you overtook the train at an early hour this morning."

"Come now, Gaines, who did it?"

"I'm not ready to say, fact is I don't know. But it wasn't young Reynolds of course, nor the little South American girl, nor the Salvation Army Lasses. Funny thing my meeting with Adjutant Gaseele. I knew her before she joined the army—lovely woman, terribly upset now over the affair, but it's fortunate for the girl that they were in the car for now there will be somebody to look after her."

"It seems to me that you have eliminated everybody except Walter Reynolds and the woman with him. You are the man who saw them in conversation with the dead man?"

"Yes."

"I'm afraid you have a pretty plain case against them, the lad."

"I'm not so sure. It's going to be mighty difficult to prove on anybody unless the object which was stolen from the body is found. The man has no identification on him to help matters."

"Still if he was in the drawing room [illegible]"

"Possibly, but he's a foreigner—they're hard to identify. Say, to change the subject for a moment, what kind of a will did [illegible] Reynolds make? [illegible] Aren't you people going to have a law suit on your hands that will bring this stolen something back? [illegible]"

"I think you are mistaken," Frank replied quietly, "the will is entirely comprehensive."

"You know best, I don't pretend to be a lawyer, but, just on the face of it, looking backward, I couldn't help wondering. And knowing Walter for a first class crook," naturally put two and two together."

"Gaines, we had a wire with Walter his wife."

"[illegible]"

"Did you [illegible] see Mr. Edmund Reynolds?"

"Certainly." "I remember it," Hyatt put in with a puzzled frown. "I don't know how Gaines. Paul doesn't know a thing about it and it's best he shouldn't for the present."

"You're holding something back!"

"We're waiting for a certain time to elapse before making important matters public."

"I see."

"I'd like to have you look these telegrams," Frank handed a batch over to him. "All received at our Los Angeles office this morning." He waited while Gaines studied the messages, then: "How could Mrs. Edmund Reynolds have telegraphed me from this train this morning unless she had been on board, and if on board where is she?"

"You will find her waiting for you in Santa Barbara," Gaines replied, "This is part of Walter Reynold's game, whatever it may be. He's had some reason for wanting you to meet this train and felt sure that you wouldn't come in his say so. That's all there is to it, that He sent you that wire when he changed trains at the junction."

"Where did he go?" asked Frank. "Do you know that the conductor of this train has a copy of the messages he sent from there? That is how he knew that it was Reynolds and not Brown. What is the conductor's attitude, Gaines? I don't like to question him too much."

"He is inclined to think the man died a natural death, being robbed later, but I happen to know that he has sent out tracers after Reynolds and his wife."

"What is his reaction to the little South American? Isn't she telling a pretty tall story?"

"Young Reynolds doesn't think so! Quite a smash, isn't it? How old is Reynolds, anyway?"

"I'd hardly know [illegible]. I asked you who she was, Gaines. Come, now, and you know everybody!"

"You asked me if she were an adventuress or a movie star. Do I look as if I dealt in those commodities? My line is investigation, not heart throbs."

"You're keeping something back."

"In my profession we have to keep our aces well up the sleeve."

"Oh rot. Have it your own way. I don't have to know, but as you say, young Reynolds is hard hit. I'm having a time to make him see reason. He wants to take her home to his step-mother in Santa Barbara, but what he proposes to do with her in Los Angeles in the early hours of tomorrow's dawn is another question."

"He wants to take her home to his stepmother in Santa Barbara, does he?" Gaines repeated slowly. "Well, well—I had some notion that, hasn't it?"

"What was he doing with it, Gaines? Why won't she tell? Where is she going?"

"You're asking a good many questions. Frank, sorry I can't answer them all, but I can satisfy you about the last one if I can depend upon you not to mention the matter to young Reynolds."

"You can depend upon me," [illegible]

BRITISH SHIPS SEEK AVIATORS

Captain Loriga Missing Since Departure From Hanoi

HONG KONG, May 4.—By the Associated Press. — The British minesweeper Marazion and the submarine L-5 are cruising along the coast today searching for Captain Loriga, one of the Spanish aviators flying from Madrid to Manila, who has been missing since he started from Hanoi to Macao.

Thus far the search has been in vain. Loriga and his mechanic left Hanoi last Saturday. Captain Gallarza, who also started in another plane, reached Macao Saturday afternoon.

WINNIPEG, Man.—(P)—Advices received by the Winnipeg grain trade Monday said that United States vessels at Canadian ports on Lake Superior and Huron, loaded with winter grain cargoes, have been forbidden to leave unless bound for eastern ports of Canada to discharge. It was pointed out that this was the first time in history that the government had enforced a rule prohibiting American boats to take Canadian winter storage grain to the United States. After a meeting of shipping interests and representatives of Canadian grain pools, a message was sent to Ottawa urging suspension of the order.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming but unnecessary.

Anyone can make a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Advertisement.

Use Lemons to Whiten Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

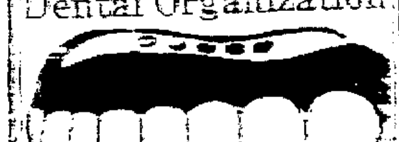

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

THE BRITISH STRIKE.

The British people, confronted by a situation in the general strike there which some of the conservative and labor leaders describe as an industrial revolution, now have an opportunity to reflect upon the folly of the particular brand of governmental paternalism which has been so commonly practiced in the British Isles in the last decade.

What the titanic struggle now looming will bring forth is purely speculative.

It is alarming enough to realize that the greatest class struggle in British history is on. A nation of forty-five millions of people, which until recently, has shown a peculiar genius for the most liberal constitutional government, lies prostrate while capital and labor renew their conflict. All of Europe may be profoundly affected by this grim clash between employe and employer. For more than a century Britain has been the stabilizing influence in the old world in the interminable battle for human rights. There has been no land where a higher value on freedom and liberty has been placed than in this birthplace of democratic principles. There has been no soil where there has been greater reverence for the institutions of government and law.

So the struggle which has opened in Britain between labor and capital is a challenge to democratic institutions. Government, as it is represented there, must justify itself to receive the renewed faith and confidence of those it serves in order to exist.

It is necessary to go back to the Lloyd-George government to obtain a clear perspective of the events leading up to this British crisis.

At the conclusion of the World war Britain found herself seriously jeopardized by the total disarrangement of industry, commerce and business. Hundreds of thousands of men, returning from France, were unable to find employment after demobilization of the armies got under way. It was then that the British government determined upon the establishment of its dole system. That was the entering wedge which was to carry Britain further into the field of paternalistic experimentation than any nation of Europe with the exception of Soviet Russian. The dole system cost Britain vastly more than the huge sums which it took from the public treasury. It destroyed a nation's incentive to work. It converted thousands to the view that government was a beneficent institution which merely needed to wave a mystic wand in order to supply its citizens with the comforts and necessities of life. Large numbers became content to draw their allowance from the government instead of seeking employment.

The second most grave mistake which the British government made came in the labor crisis last year when the same troublesome mine group threatened a strike. Once again the government stepped in, and for a scond time the public treasury was drawn upon to subsidize workers. In a dozen other directions Britain has been flirting with paternalism. She has engaged in a great housing program, wherein governmental funds were used most lavishly to provide better housing accommodations for those who could not otherwise afford them. She has endeavored to supply governmental insurance for all. She has a revolutionary land bill before her now which is most socialistic in its aims. In a period of great economic stress and confusion, Britain has endeavored to place the full burden upon government in the fatuous belief that it could perform impossible miracles for those who must look to it.

The time has come for a showdown.

Government cannot long exist when it becomes possible for any group of its citizens, necessarily in a minority, to shape and model its policies. Yet that is precisely what has been happening in Britain since the close of the war and since labor has become so all powerful in the British Isles.

This is a last-ditch fight.

Either the five million men who comprise the membership of the trade unions of Great Britain must be made to recognize that the orderly processes of law supercede the interests of any group or class, or government fails. Britain must get back to economic principles in the operation of her business and industry and must abandon the paternalistic experiments which are the root of her trouble. Although long delayed, Premier Baldwin at the head of the government has finally taken a sound course in resisting the threat and menace of the general strike. It will be, from all present indications, a bitter and long-drawn out struggle. For the good of the British people and for the world at large it is to be most ardently hoped that the government will remain firm and unshakable in its resolve to resist this last demand of labor. To compromise or vacillate will only postpone a decision which ultimately must be made.

Black as the situation is, there are many hopeful elements in it. The British are a calm, unruffled people. They are not given to bloodshed and terrorism. They are likely to work this thing out along peaceful lines and to seek the solution which logic and common sense dictate. At heart they are a strongly individualistic nation. With the training and tradition of centuries back of them it is difficult to foresee other than a happy termination of this colossal conflict.

NEBRASKA'S EXPORTS.

From official figures given out by the federal commerce department it is revealed that Nebraska exported commodities to foreign countries in 1925 amounting in total value to $22,628,000. This was equivalent to $1,500 apiece for each man, woman and child living in the state, the population of which at the present time approximates 1½ millions.

It will be seen from the foregoing that, while Nebraska is located a long way from the seacoast, it is furnishing a rather large contribution to the country's advantage total exports. What is chiefly significant in this connection is the fact that virtually all of the goods produced in this state and shipped abroad were foodstuffs. About one-third of the whole amount—more than $7,000,000—was represented by grain and grain products; another third by meats; and most of the remainder by butter, lard and other animal fats and greases. Cargoes of eggs from Nebraska worth $618,000 were included in the statistical exhibit.

Would it be a good thing for Nebraska to diminish its exports of cereals, meats, dairy and poultry products, or to curtail their production so there would be little or no surplus for shipment to other countries? Should its farmers and live stock growers be content to raise only so much as would supply the domestic market? Could they afford to relinquish their share of American foreign trade and leave the benefits of that field to be enjoyed only by eastern manufacturers?

That is virtually what they are asked to do by the political "farm relievers" in congress and outside. All the various plans of so-called "relief" treat the exportable surplus of farm products as an evil and aim to minimize it as much as possible. The much-vaunted Haugen bill proposes to penalize the farmers for every bushel of grain, every pound of meat, and every bale of cotton grown in excess of what can be consumed in the United States. It virtually says to the agricultural and live stock producers:

"Thus far shall you go and no farther. You shall not utilize your lands in raising commodities to feed and clothe the people of other lands. Your job is merely to raise what is needed in this country, and no more. The tariff-protected manufacturing industries may go the limit in producing as much as they want to, selling as much of their output as they can to American buyers at the highest prices, and shipping the rest overseas to be dumped on the world markets for whatever it will bring. You must pay the American price for whatever you buy, but you must be careful to limit production on what you have to sell so that there will be little or nothing left after domestic requirements are met. If you do produce more, you will be taxed on the excess."

If Nebraska's natural products are to be thus restricted, what will take their place? This region is too far inland and at too great a disadvantage in freight rates, as well as lacking in fuel supplies, to be able to compete with the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, or even the great lakes territory or that bordering the gulf of Mexico, in manufacture of textiles, clothing, machinery, iron and steel products, aluminumware and tin ware, and other fabricated goods. The net result, therefore, would be to deprive Nebraska of any share in the nation's foreign trade.

Why should not the farmers and stockmen of Nebraska have as good a right as the great industrial corporations to produce and sell wherever they can find buyers? Why should this great state be placed in a strait jacket while New England, New York, New Jersey and other coast states be free to ship their wares all over the world? Is it standing up for Nebraska to advocate a political "relief" scheme that would confine its chief industries within artificial limits?

Certainly, Nebraska would not benefit by withdrawing from the export field and thus surrendering an outlet for $22,500,000 of her products in a single year. What Nebraska needs is a still wider market for the foodstuffs she raises, so that she may find buyers throughout the world for even greater quantities of the things she can supply.

MILLIONS FOR MOVING.

No more forceful argument could be found in favor of people owning their own homes than the statement sent out by the Associated Press to the effect that families in the United States spent sixty-eight million dollars in moving to different habitations on May 1. It is stated that four million people found themselves in new homes the day after the annual hegira.

In New York City and other principal cities of the country the gas companies, according to reports received, had 800,000 turn-on gas orders, Chicago, as usual, leading all the others in the May Day scramble, 80,000 families changing residences there. Of the vast sum thus spent twenty million dollars went to truckmen for transporting furniture, being an average of $25 paid for each such service in moving.

Of course people have a right to move every year if they feel so disposed and it is to be presumed that all who do so, consider that they are bettering themselves or getting something which will more nearly satisfy them than the places they leave. But it would be well to reflect on the fact that a tremendous economic waste is involved in this continual carting of furniture and household effects from one place to another.

The family owning its own home is "sitting pretty." It has a permanent address and knows approximately what it is going to be required to pay out each year for a place in which to live. This will not include $50 or more for the expense of moving and everything spent on the place adds just that much to its value in addition to the natural enhancement thereof.

Almost everything that is unnecessarily expended is wasted and this is true of the cost of vast numbers of movings, notwithstanding the fact that much of the money is paid to others for services in connection therewith and enables them to live. If these were not performing this unnecessary service they would in all probability be doing something which would add to the wealth of the state as a whole and therefore to that of all the people. The American people are acquiring homes at an unprecedented rate, that being one of the principal reasons why the country is the most prosperous one in the world. When all families are thus situated the perpetuity of that prosperity will be assured.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH.

Mr. Hoover's proposal to raise a $20,000,000 fund for the promotion of pure science opens an avenue of interesting possibilities. It is the plan of those back of this campaign to adopt a definite ten-year program of research and investigation representing an annual expenditure of $2,000,000. When one recalls the vast sums devoted to education in the great universities of the country, it would not seem that Mr Hoover's estimate of the amount of funds needed is lavish or extravagant.

One weakness of the appeal which is being made, however, is the failure to differentiate between pure science and applied science. So far Mr. Hoover's appeal has been restricted to business and industry. He has undertaken to point out the very material results which may be expected to accrue from a program of this nature. He has shown an inclination to appeal to the generosity of the steel industry on the basis that far reaching and revolutionary methods may be uncovered which will place it upon a more efficient and effective foundation. He has taken particular pains to stress the importance of medical discovery in adding to the length of human life and he has visualized how industry and business have grown through the innovations of scientific discoveries.

This is all proper and true but it suggests that hopes are being fanned which may not be realized. As a matter of fact a ten-year program of research in pure science, as distinguished from applied science, will add infinitely to the sum total of human knowledge, which in the end signifies larger intelligence and happiness. There is no authentic measure for computing the value of some of the most important scientific discoveries. The man who attempts to place an estimate upon the value of Newton's contribution makes himself ridiculous.

As the wealthiest nation in the world, America can well afford to devote a few of her millions toward increasing the world's knowledge. She has the funds to carry on this work and she should do so without a thought as to whether it will result in a material

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

WARTS.

R. writes that she has always detested warts, and she doesn't think that any school girl wants to be loaded down with them. She has had a small one on her arm for about a year and now she is getting one on the corner of her eye. In a P.S., she adds: "Write soon, please, Doctor?"

No, indeed R., no school girl nor anybody else for that matter, wants to be loaded down with warts, for while ordinarily they do not cause any trouble except inconvenience, they certainly are disfiguring. They are not dangerous unless they are in a position to be irritated, where, especially after 40, they may be stimulated to a cancerous growth.

Before I tell you about them, I want to explain that anything you ask me to write cannot appear until about four weeks after I receive the letter, even though I could write on it immediately. This is rarely possible, as I always have so many letters ahead. However, if you watch the column perhaps you may find I've covered your questions in an answer to someone else.

There are many who seem to be interested in medical terminology and perhaps you will be interested to know that the technical name for warts is verruca, and the common type such as young people and children have is verruca vulgaris. They vary in size from a hemp-seed to that of a split pea, and two or three may become joined together so that they make a very much larger one. They may be smooth or uneven, and in color they may be like the skin, or occasionally may be more ambitious and take on shades of brown, yellow, black or even green. They appear mostly on the hands, but they may appear on other places, even to the bottom of the feet.

The verruca filiformis are warts in which there are distinct thread-like projections, or enlarged papillae. There may be one or many more of these. (The papillae are little nipple-like projections of the skin which you cannot see ordinarily except through the microscope. You can see the papillae on the tongue.) This type of wart is soft and occurs mostly on the face, eyelids and neck.

Verruca plana is a flattish wart which occurs sometimes in large numbers, especially on the face and back of the hands of young people. In old people they occur on the trunk and arms and have coloring matter in them, and are known as verruca senilis.

There is a type of wart known as the moist wart which occurs where there are discharges or where there is excessive perspiration.

Cause. It is not fully known what causes warts, but in certain types especially the ordinary warts of young people, it is known that they are auto-inoculable. That is, one wart will inoculate the skin it touches and cause more warts. Therefore, it is thought to be due to some type of germ life. Because minute particles of glass or other foreign bodies have been found in some warts, it may be that local irritation or some small break in the skin give the germs the entrance ticket.

We know that the soft warts on parts that are subject to discharges, are due to the irritation of the discharges. Of course, the treatment in this case is the treatment of the discharge as well as the local treatment, and a patient with these warts naturally should be under the care of a physician.

Shall Nebraska Be Represented at the Sesqui-centennial?

Lincoln, Neb., May 3.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: A few straggling letters of inquiry ask the question, "Is Nebraska to be represented at the Sesqui-centennial exposition at Philadelphia, beginning June 1 and ending November 30, this year, 1926."

To all interested, the answer is, "Nebraska will be represented on the opening day, June 1, and will answer to roll call and let it be known that we have advantages that are of interest to the world."

From the best sources obtainable, information comes to us that the work has been speeded up for several months past so that many of the essential buildings will be completed by June 1 and the rest in about thirty days.

Practically every country in Europe is planning on having exhibits of special commercial value to this country, and all others who are in need of their wares, just as the eastern states will show their manufacturing industrial output, and the agricultural states will offer their advantages to all. Europe and all other foreign countries.

As nearly all the states are working, or soon to start, on their exhibits, it is necessary, right now, for Nebraska to decide whether they will stand by the decision of the Sesqui-centennial committee, who unanimously favored Nebraska being represented. This committee was appointed by Governor McMullen from the several localities of the state.

The amount of money needed was set at $50,000 and a committee was named to go ahead on plans to raise that amount. The following facts are now given to this general committee as well as all others concerned. No state funds being available, it was necessary for the commissioner in charge to advance whatever would be needed, up to perhaps a thousand dollars. This was decided by the committee to be impractical, unless we were assured that the various parts of the state were interested enough to help carry on the work of getting the funds together. That the railroads had a program of their own to work out and were not in a position to aid, financially, each state. That many communities in the state would be glad to do their bit, as soon as concerted action gave assurance of results. That lack of immediate funds prevented the committee from reaching these places, personally.

If Nebraska is still interested in offering her advantages to the millions that are promised at this exposition, then a letter advising this committee of that fact from county organizations, civic clubs, or any other activity should be sent in at once. Whether you favor it or not, would assist the committee in arriving at a conclusion.

There is enough land and commerical inspiration in this great state to bring a million people to Nebraska in the next two decades if we will spread the information to these home seeking folks from hre and abroad. A small amount from each community will do the trick. Write and let us know what you want done, as this is your business, for on your advice the many individual pledges now made will be usable, or not. That is for all to determine. Shall we present Nebraska to the world for inspection? Fifty thousand dollars will present Nebraska to fifty million inquiring minds at the exposition. We'll answer your letters of inquiry, but do it now. GEORGE C. MASON.

Real Economy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 3.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: With further reference to my government reorganization bill, I respectfully call your attention to the enclosed copy of my congressional speech, delivered in the house.

May I especially call your attention to the few extracts from many typical letters received from present and former government employes, incorporated in my speech, all endorsing my stand and presenting additional facts, from the personal knowledge of the writers, with reference to inside conditions.

It is my plan to have a hearing on this bill before the rules committee shortly, and I want the maximum amount of supporting evidence as indicating the public demand for real economy and efficiency in the federal government.

The conspicuous fact stands out that, in spite of the president's earnest and repeated pleas for economy, there was an increase of twenty thousand civilian employes of the government from December 31, 1923, to July 1, 1925, and that the normal expenses of the government are increasing. Such tax reduction as we have had is the result of a transition from the war to a peace-time basis simply means that the war taxes were yielding too much revenue. It is a normal and economic wrong to tax people more than enough for the proper conduct of the government under efficient administration. As I see it, nothing short of a concerted and emphatic public demand will cure this bad situation, which involves an enormous unnecessary waste of tax-payers' money.

The response to my first appeal for co-operation was magnificent. A further emphatic demand from the voting tax payers will probably produce some definite results. From my point of view, it makes no difference whether my bill or some other good bill is passed. What I want—and what you want—is results. I have offered what seemed to me a definite, practical plan. Any other plan that promises substantial results will be a great achievement and a victory for public opinion.

This undertaking means nothing to me except an opportunity to render service to my country. We are all interested in the result that this effort seeks to attain. May I hope that you will make it a matter of personal concern.

"Getting married is a very serious business young man, wait a year and if you are still of the same mind, come back and I will give you leave."

At the end of the year the fellow came back and General Kitchener complimented him on his consistency. The young officer turned as he was leaving and said:

"General, I think in view of your compliment I ought to tell you, it's not the same girl."

Briefly Told News From The Wires

BERLIN—(AP)—The British Miners Federation Monday informed the German Miners federation of the commencement of the coal strike. The socialist and communist party leaders are urging the miners in Germany to aid their British colleagues by preventing the transport of Ruhr coal to Great Britain and also are negotiating with the Dutch labor unions to prevent trans-shipment of such coal through Holland.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—While the Jefferson county grand jury was Monday inquiring into reports of mysterious deaths at state-operated convict camps in this county, word reached the jury that Mose Thomas, negro prisoner, had been killed at Flat Top during the day by coming in contract with a live wire in the underground workings of the pit. Officials said the inquisitors might include this death with others under investigation. Maimed convicts from Flat Top, some of them were youths in appearance, continued to tell their stories to the jurors. One of yesterday's witnesses was Will West, 24, who lost a hand after he was sent to camp.

FEZ, French Morocco.—(AP)—The sultan of Morocco, Mulai Yussef, who has been referred to as a figurehead in the actual government of country under the protectorate of France and Spain, has taken the initiative in a diplomatic effort to save the Moroccan peace conference. Journeying from Rabat to Fez in all the pomp of the former eastern potentates, the sultan summoned General Simon, head of the French delegation, and in the words of an official communique, "exposed to the general his views and desires in the present negotiations."

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(AP)—Sertinet Schlats, 18, a farm hand, has confessed to a coroner's jury at Homestead, Mont., near here, that he shot and killed his employer, Tony Geisler, and his wife, in order to get possession of an automobile and $25 in cash when he knew them to have. The shooting took place Saturday at the Geisler ranch, seventy miles west of Homestead. Schlats loaded their bodies into a wagon and took them twelve miles to the Big Muddy river, throwing them in. The bodies were found Sunday and Schlats' arrest followed.

GUARD AGAINST FRICTION

Smoking Chariot Wheels

The chariots of the Ancients, thundering over the battlefield or with smoking axles madly coursing around the circus, often broke down—with death the price.

Our modern chariots of steel are marvels of mechanical perfection. But, like all other machines, they fall easy victims to destructive friction.

It takes a high quality oil to guard a motor against friction—an oil manufactured to meet the special requirements of the motor in which it is to be used. No organization has better facilities or more experience in making motor oils than go into the manufacture of Polarine. If better oils could be produced they would be sold under the Polarine brand.

Polarine resists the effects of heat. It assures a strong, elastic cushioning oil film that coats all moving parts and prevents friction. Using Polarine of the right grade is the first step towards protective lubrication.

Plenty of oil and clean oil are the other requirements.

Guard against friction by using the grade of Polarine automotive experts and oil engineers have proved by innumerable laboratory and road tests is best suited to your car.

Consult the Polarine chart. Drain out the old dirty, diluted oil every five or six hundred miles, or as often as the manufacturer of your car recommends, and refill with fresh Polarine. You will save money on operating expenses and repair bills.

Polarine is made in six grades—Polarine Light, Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy, Extra Heavy and Polarine "F" for Fords—a right grade to provide protective lubrication for every style and make of motor. Look for the Red Crown Pump and the Polarine Sign.

CHARGES GRAND JURY FORESTALL REIGN OF TERROR

Begin Probe Chicago Gang War Killings: Attorney General In Charge.

Judge Warns Investigators Present State Of Affairs Must Not Go On.

CHICAGO, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Charged by the court with the task of forestalling "a reign of terror" in Chicago, a special grand jury set out Monday to fix responsibility for internecine gang warfare which culminated last week in a triple murder, whose principal victim was Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom of Illinois, intervening at the request of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, took charge of the panel after it had been sworn in and instructed by Judge William V. Brothers, acting chief justice of the criminal court.

The probing of possible relations of the gang warfare with politics in Cook county was suggested by the fact that the first two witnesses to appear before the grand jury were Coroner Oscar Wolff, political foe of the state's attorney, and Harry Eugene Kelly, president of the Union League club of Chicago, and an advocate of an inquiry into gangdom's possible relationship with law enforcement officials. Neither witness would comment on his testimony after he had appeared before the jury and neither was in the jury room more than a few minutes.

Points To Many Slayings.

Calling attention to the commission in Cook county of twenty murders since last January 1, Judge Brothers told the jury that at least nineteen of these are what might be termed gang murders. He recounted the use of the slayers of sawed-off shot guns, rifles and machine guns; the commission of all murders by night, the refusal of victims to name their slayers even when they remained conscious long enough to do so.

"The primary motive inspiring the gangs," said Judge Brothers, "appears to be indissolubly linked with the illicit traffic in liquor and beer. Sometimes it has been the manufacture of the stuff, sometimes the important factor of its transfer from place to place, sometimes its sale to saloonkeepers or even to the ultimate consumer."

Recounting the circumstances attending a number of the slayings, and warning the grand jurors not to let intimidation deter them from their work, the judge said:

"If the present condition of affairs continues much longer, without the intervention of the stern and implacable hand of the law, a reign of terror will be upon us. Mob rule will prevail and this great community will be at the mercy of a well organized minority which depends for its existence on the rule of silence and the crushing weight of fear."

Not Limited In Scope.

The court called to the jury's attention the fact that he had "purposely refrained" from limiting the scope of its inquiry in any fashion.

"Carefully investigate this beer running, alcohol and whisky manufacturing business," he ordered. "Inquire into its [illegible], search out those officers and all those associated with them even in a remote degree. Then act without regard to whether the [illegible] is rich or poor, American [illegible] foreign born, [illegible] standing—and [illegible] [illegible] of any [illegible] or political position which the [illegible] [illegible] may occupy in the community.

"If bribery or corruption suggest themselves, look closely and [illegible] the guilty [illegible]. The [illegible] are aroused."

The Burnese [illegible] [illegible] of Cicero, the Chicago suburb where the triple murder occurred and which has been the scene of many such gang wars because of its presence there of [illegible] in the liquor running element, itself took a hand Monday in the McSwiggin inquiry and called a mass meeting Thursday night to make an investigation of its own.

DAUGHTER AND SON OF DAVIS HIS WITNESSES

of Eleanor and Thelma Wilson, boarders at Mrs. Resler's home, who said that last year they saw letters allegedly written by Davis to Mrs. Resler in Mrs. Resler's home. Fern said that school let out May 17, and the girls had left Beaver City when school closed. The Wilson girls named June 2 as the date they saw the letters.

Mrs. May Simmons, another state witness who today testified in behalf of the defense, said that she went to the Norton county fair with the Davis family and Mrs. Resler on August 12. Mrs. Davis told her, she said, that they were driving to Iowa the next day to a reunion. This testimony was stricken out, however, as irresponsive to the question of counsel. Mrs. Simmons also told of Mrs. Davis becoming ill while helping make ice cream for a social on June 12.

Davis Did Not Stay.

A. S. Wiatt, father of Mrs. Resler, who married Davis four months after Mrs. Davis died, told today of being at his daughter's home when Davis called in September last. Mrs. Resler, he said, took a coat belonging to one of the Davis children to the door, and Davis left at once. He also testified concerning a buffet which the state had contended and its witnesses had testified contained endearing letters when purchased at a sale of Mrs. Resler's goods. Mr. Wiatt said he had taken the buffet down town and that no letters were in it.

"Do you remember what time Mrs. Beulah Kinsman came to the Resler home on December 24?" Mr. Lambe asked Wiatt. "Where were you on that day?" Mrs. Kinsman had purchased the buffet and testified concerning letters.

"I was helping Mrs. Resler pack; she was going away," he replied.

"Who else was there helping, if you know?" Lambe asked.

"Mrs. Franklin, wife of S. J. 'Alfalfa John' Franklin of Beaver City and Mr. Davis," Wiatt said.

"Were you present at any time when Beulah Kinsman and Mrs. Marvin came to examine the house?" Lambe asked.

"I was."

"What did you notice about a closet between two bedrooms?"

"We were wrapping a bedstead and I saw Davis go in there several times and come out with papers."

"State whether the closet door was opened or closed at that time?" Lambe directed.

"I believe it was open."

"What, if anything, did Mr. Davis bring from there after bringing the papers?"

"The only thing I noticed were papers he had to wrap the legs of the bedstead."

Tests Are Made.

Lambe sought by this question to refute the testimony of Mrs. Kinsman that she had seen Davis "hidden" in the closet of the Resler home and that he was "discovered" just as someone opened the door.

"Tests" made Sunday and Monday night at the store Davis formerly operated to determine whether a person outside could see persons inside as Clausen said he did the night of August 14 were described by other witnesses today. The defense seeking to prove out that unless lights in the telephone office across the street were lighted, no one in the Davis store could be seen at night. This testimony, together with that of Davis' children regarding their father's presence in Iowa that night, is considered by the defense to be great refutation of Clausen's testimony.

INDIANA VOTERS GO TO POLLS

Nominees Being Chosen For Senator And Congressmen In Hoosier State.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 4.—(I. N. S.)—Under dull weather Indiana's voters trudged to the polls in 3,458 precincts throughout the state today to express their choice for nominees and democratic nominees for United States senator, congressmen and county and township offices.

It was a perfect day from a weather standpoint, but this tended to [illegible] the vote in the rural districts, observers declared owing to the reluctance of the farmer to [illegible] in the work because of the spring's belated arrival to cast a ballot.

The polls opened promptly at 6 o'clock this morning and will close at 6 p. m. All voting is by the slow Australian ballot and managers of the various candidates believed that a decided trend in the count might not be available before midnight or early Wednesday.

BUILDINGS BILL TO BE PASSED

Compromise Amendments Adopted Stripping Mellon Of Authority.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Speedy passage of the $165,000,000 public buildings bill was made certain Monday with the adoption of compromise amendments stripping Secretary Mellon of blanket authority to expend the $100,000,000 provided for new structures outside of the District of Columbia.

Under the compromise, as worked out between those in charge of the measure and leading democratic opponents, congressional approval of the treasury's building program would be necessary before contracts could be entered into.

In addition the treasury is making recommendations to congress as directed to take into account the population and postal receipts as deciding factors in determining where new buildings are to be erected.

Another amendment accepted by the senate was that by Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, providing that every state should get at least one new building. The objection had been made that under the bill all the new construction would be in twenty-two states.

Describing the bill as "wrong, rotten wrong," Senator Reed, Missouri, democrat, said the senate should reject it and direct the committee to bring in a measure which would retain in congress its constitutional right to control the purse strings in public business expenditures.

Senator Reed said the only emergency in public building construction now is the enlargement of federal prisons to take care of violators of the Volstead act.

YOUNG ABBOTT ORDERED FREED

Boston Man Charged With "Insulting" Mussolini Wins Release.

ROME, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—An investigating magistrate today ordered the immediate release of John Adams Abbott, member of a prominent Boston family, who has been held in jail here for the last week.

The charge that he had insulted Premier Mussolini was shown to be unfounded.

Abbott was arrested on the complaint of an Italian guide, Salvatore Astrologo, whom the American vanquished in a fist fight following an argument over their respective places in line while awaiting entrance to the Vatican garden.

The fight took place in front of Abbott's hotel where Astrologo, accompanied by two friends, sought him after the argument. Astrologo received a fractured jaw and was taken to the hospital.

Socialists Urge Legalization of Wines and Beer

PITTSBURGH, May 4.—(AP)—Legislation that will permit domestic use of light wines and beer and the manufacture for sale of alcoholic beverages by the federal government under proper safeguards and proper restrictions was advocated here Monday by the socialist party of America at the close of its national convention.

A resolution relating to prohibition was adopted after considerable debate during which Congressman Victor L. Berger, Wisconsin, warned the delegates the [illegible] question was the issue at stake in the United States and that unless they acted upon it "the socialists would not go into the election."

The resolution declared in the failure of prohibition in the United States, the socialist party sees the result of blind, blundering legislative methods so characteristic of republican and democratic politicians.

Brunson Will Go To Washington To Consult Andrews

OMAHA, May 4.—(AP)—Glen A. Brunson, new district prohibition chief with jurisdiction over Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska, plans to leave Thursday for Washington to confer with General Lincoln C. Andrews, national enforcement chief, relative to the prohibition situation here.

Brunson Monday succeeded A. W. McCampbell as enforcement head here. He will spend Friday in Des Moines. His return here is uncertain.

Brunson and McCampbell today were checking up property of the prohibition department being turned over to the former. McCampbell's new [illegible] will be assumed until after May 15.

RUBBER PRICE JUMPS.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—The possibility that London shipments of crude rubber to this country for May delivery may be interfered with, especially in the event of a prolonged general strike in Britain caused an advance of 70 points and an excited rush of buying during the last few minutes of trading on the rubber exchange Monday.

MILLIONS OF UNION TOILERS GO ON STRIKE

encountered. The attitude adopted toward those proceeding to [illegible] even women and girls, was far from friendly.

All work ceased on the docks.

Traffic Tangled.

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twelve hours after the Great Britain general strike had gone into effect traffic in London's streets was in a hopeless jam.

The narrow thoroughfares of the capital were incapable of accommodating the unexpectedly heavy motor traffic caused by the cessation of service on tram lines, railways, subways and regular bus lines, and many streets in the business center were solidly packed.

The government's first news bulletin, issued over the wireless this morning, was a notification from the railway information bureaus that the transport service for the supply of milk was working according to schedule.

Radicals Are Active.

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Great Britain today felt the grip of labor's might. At midnight the millions of workers under the aegis of the Trades Union congress, quit their labors in the struggle to enforce the coal miners' stand against lower wages and increased hours.

By noon the streets of the capital were a maelstrom of milling pedestrians and crawling motor vehicles with the unaffected workers striving to get to their places of business, while in some places radical strike sympathizers sought to turn them back.

The beginning of the strike had a dramatic setting in London. Large crowds had gathered about the parliament houses and in Whitehall where they whiled away their time singing the "Red Flag."

Big Ben boomed out 12.

A man clinging to the railing of the house of parliament yelled hoarsely: "Comrades, the hour has struck!"

Then the great mass of people began to swerve and eddy into a procession which started toward the west end.

Police Seize Red Flag.

Near the treasury the police seized a red flag and there was a brief unsuccessful struggle to recapture it. Then the marchers passed through Trafalgar square to Regent street and Piccadilly to the Hyde Park corner.

Finding the great park closed they continued through the quiet back streets.

Suddenly in Easton square the police escort turned and scattered the marchers. Some of the men fell in their flight, others were chased by the bobbies and then the demonstration broke up.

While the tie-up of traffic continued throughout the city and many expresses apprehension as to the outcome of the great struggle, efforts were continuing toward a settlement.

The general council of the Trades Union congress met during the morning in Ecclestone square and left shortly after 1 o'clock for the house of commons.

Former Premier Ramsay Macdonald, J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railway Men; Arthur Henderson, home secretary in the labor government; Herbert Smith, vice president of the miners' federation, and A. J. Cook, its chief, participated in the conference.

The executive committee of the miners' federation was summoned to the house of commons to participate, it is believed, in a conference with the Trades Union council.

Thousands Are Affected.

Millions of workers [illegible] their first day without wages. Just how many it was impossible to estimate, for besides the actual strikers called out by the Trade Union congress, of thousands of non-strikers were thrown out of work through the inability of their concerns to function.

Health and food service continued, partly because of the provisions made by the Trades Union congress and partly through the great government organization formed for the transmission of food stuffs and other necessities of life so there might be a minimum of suffering.

Apart from emergency trains, scarcely a wheel turned on the great network of railways. Trams, buses and other normal means of transport ceased operations. Coal, iron and allied industries closed down. Workers supplying gas and electricity for power purposes were idle. All building work other than for housing hospitals stopped.

Even the newspapers as a whole were silent this morning and the country therefore was dependent on the radio for news of the strikers to not carry out their threat to [illegible] [illegible] Workmen, Tradesmen, the banks and the various professions were continuing about as well as was possible under the circumstances.

Great Congestion.

When London awakened this morning it found itself faced with an anomaly. It had been expected that with the cessation of traffic the metropolis would be fairly quiet. But not in years was there such congestion of vehicles, for not only thousands of workers were aboard but non-striking workers came pouring into the city in every available conveyance and many on foot.

All the roads leading into London were filled with wide streams of motorcars of every description and of every vintage. Thousands of persons pedaled along amid traffic on bicycles and tandems. Motor lorries joined the procession.

Old and young men, many of them women and girls, trudged toward their offices and shops. Some of the pedestrians had covered many, many miles. The star turn in in this medley was taken by an energetic man who made his way through one of the main thoroughfares on roller skates amid cheering from the onlookers. The reinforced police squads worked as they rarely had worked before to keep traffic untangled and crawling and crawl was the best it could do.

Exact Number Out Unknown.

Just how many workers are affected by the strike has not been definitely ascertained, but the estimates run from 2,500,000 upwards to around 4,000,000. The latest available statistics show that last September the membership of the trades unions affiliated with the Trades Union congress aggregated 4,342,000.

The strike became effective after a day and night of suspense during which there were negotiations between the [illegible] of the government and representatives of the Trades Union congress in an endeavor to reach an agreement which would end the crisis. Even at a late hour last night there seemed to be some hope of negotiations which might lead a way out of the difficulty. All efforts, however, proved futile.

Lloyd's a Busy Place.

One of the busiest places in the city was Lloyd's, underwriting rooms were general insurances, the affected. Aside from the writing of the usual shipping policies, today's business consisted mainly of "strike risks," which were taken out by owners of commercial concerns to protect them against possible damage in case of rioting.

For the majority of these a rate of 2 shillings, 6 pence per 1100 was paid, but in what are regarded as the danger areas, the quotations on general foodstuffs and merchandise ranged from 5 to 10 shillings per 1100.

Private motor car owners in large numbers took out insurance on their cars against the risks of "civil commotion" at a rate of 1 shilling per 1100.

WHEAT DROPS AS A STRIKE RESULT

British Walkout Has Depressing Influence On Grain Markets.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The New York securities markets successfully withstood the first shock of selling inspired at the beginning of the general strike in Great Britain. An early decline of 1 to 2 points in prices was followed by a sharp rally, which carried many issues 1 to 2 points above yesterday's final quotations.

Cotton held steady but wheat prices, always the most sensitive to adverse foreign developments, broke 2½ to 4½c a bushel.

Stocks Take Early Drop.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.—The depressing influence of the British strike on the local securities markets was intensified today when a wave of selling orders swept over the stock market causing initial declines of 1 to 3 points in scores of leading railroad and industrial shares.

Foreign exchanges also felt the effect of the British crisis, demand sterling reacting a quarter of a cent to around $4.85, and French and Belgian francs selling at the lowest levels of the year.

LAGUARDIA USES IMMUNITY RIGHT

New York Congressman Refuses to Accept Subpoena In Liquor Case.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.—Invoking the constitutional immunity granted members of congress, Representative Laguardia, progressive-socialist, New York, declined Monday to obey a subpoena from an Indianapolis federal grand jury to appear for testimony in a prohibition case.

Mr. Laguardia announced his decision on the house floor, saying he doubted whether he had authority to accept the subpoena unless consent were given by the house. His statement led to a debate on the constitutional question involved.

His testimony had been asked for the New York member said, in regard to charges recently made by him in the house involving the disappearance of 350 cases of liquor from the federal building at Indianapolis, held in custody of the court.

"The department of justice," he said, "knows exactly what I know. The bootleggers of Ohio, in conjunction with those of Pennsylvania have caused this subpoena, and I shall not dignify it by noticing it.

"Let the court compel my attendance."

The constitutional provision on which he based his refusal was the part of Section IV which says that "for any speech or debate in either house they (senators and representatives) shall not be questioned in any other place."

Early Sheriff Of Thayer County Dead

Special to The Star.

HEBRON, Neb., May 4.—Alfred Lindsey, seventy-five, early settler of Thayer county, sheriff in the early days here, and a resident of prominence in Hebron for the past fifty years died at the family home here Monday. He and his wife homesteaded near Chester shortly after Nebraska was admitted as a state and lived on the farm until 1878, when he was elected Sheriff of this county and moved to Hebron where he had lived continuously since and was always prominent politically and in civic affairs. He served two terms as sheriff.

One month ago the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary quietly in their home here. He is survived by the wife and five children: Mrs. Jane Hetels, in Oregon; Bob, commonly known as "Bud," who is a department head in the office of the superintendent of transportation for the Burlington railway in Omaha; Horace, in Kentucky; Leslie, in Kansas, and John, a former court reporter, whose address at this time is unknown.

Favorable Report On The Federal Aid Roads Bill

newspaper which shall publish scavenger notices, and in case it fail to do so the county treasurer may act. The board omitted to designate any paper for the first notice, and it was given by the treasurer to the News. Subsequently the board awarded a number of other notices to the Falls City Journal, and paid for the publication in its columns. Meanwhile the treasurer had turned the whole list to the News, and it also printed them.

When the board declined to pay twice, Davis brought suit. The supreme court says the county board may designate the newspaper to publish each and every notice separately, and that it may choose different newspapers for different publications. It was not required to publish later notices in the News merely because that paper printed the first one, the opinion asserts.

Liable on Coal Contract.

Damages of $82,807 for failure to carry out its contract to purchase the entire output of the O'Gara Coal Co.'s mine at Eldorado, Ill., from September 2, 1920, to March 31, 1921, must be paid by the Milwaukee railroad, the high bench holds in affirming a judgment to that effect appealed from Douglas county by the carrier.

The contract was entered into when a strike at the mines was impending and a fuel shortage confronted the whole country. It bound the coal company to furnish 1,250 to 1,500 tons per day, for which the railroad was to pay $4 a ton. After the strike was settled, coal became more plentiful and the Milwaukee did not carry out its agreement. The coal corporation sued for $204,421, but was awarded the smaller sum.

Its claim included losses due to enforced decrease in production, lower prices received on coal sold to other purchasers, expense of keeping the mine in readiness for operation, and interest.

rooms was well warranted and no one would like better to see a new administration building go up in place of the old high school buildings than the board itself.

From now on custodians and principals of schools will be instructed in the use of fire extinguishers but no teacher or child shall be allowed to touch them. Mr. Stuart is inclined to think that the things are far more dangerous than they are much good. "If someone is smart enough to use them and put the fire out, all right, but for my part I think the best thing to do is to get out."

Proposes New System.

C. L. Martin of the firm of Martin, Doe and Buckler appeared before the board to give his idea of the way in which the accounts of the board should be straightened out and kept in the future. Mr. Martin thinks that the board should set up a ledger of accounts that would carry forward from year to year and take the place of the annual report which is now given out. If his idea were carried out, the taxpayer might at a minute's glance be able to ascertain just where and how much money the board had spent for every purpose to which the school board's money goes, and would also give an idea why new bond issues must be asked.

The board approved the plan of Mr. Martin and appointed a committee consisting of the president, vice president and secretary of the board to confer with him in regard to the setting up of the new ledgers.

Commencement June 4.

The formal opening of the new Randolph school will take place Tuesday evening, May 18. The board of education will participate in the affair. June 4 has been set for the high school commencement exercises. They will be held at St. Paul's church, Twelfth and M streets. The new field house was considered but the cost would be so much greater than the church that the idea was abandoned.

The board approved the stand taken by Judge Frost of resisting any effort, either on the part of the parents of children who work in the beet fields or the officials of the industry, in taking children out of the Lincoln schools before May 21. This is two weeks ahead of the regular closing of the schools.

Mrs. Mabel Devore, teacher of the deaf school, has been invited to instruct a class in lip reading at the sesqui-centennial exposition in Philadelphia the week of August 26. Mrs. Devore will be in the booth given over to the American federated organizations for the deaf in the Palace of Education. She will use charts and plans devised for the use in the Lincoln school for the deaf.

Communications from the board's attorney and the city attorney relative to the proposed purchase of the F street park for the new West Side junior high school did not leave much hope in the minds of the board members that they would ever be able to get the tract of land. Both lawyers were inclined to believe that the land belonged to the state and that the legislature and the city would both have to approve the sale before it could be made.

In reply to a letter from W. L. Gregory of Woods Brothers, asking for thirty-three feet on the south side of the Holmsite addition belonging to the board, that Sumner street might be opened to the Eastridge Country club, the board voted to allow the land to be taken over for this purpose.

L. S. Crane, city electrical inspector, solved the question of whether the electrical construction in the new Clinton building was [illegible] or not. He went to the board [illegible] [illegible] conformed to the city code. The Electrical Construction association of Lincoln had questioned the work done by an outside [illegible]. From now on the board will approve all electrical construction that comes up to the code.

Eight ceilings in Bryant school will be replastered at once due to the fact that a portion of one fell the other day and fell with such force that two desks were split and bent. Fortunately there were no children seated at the desks at the time. The new ceilings will be steel constructed and will cost about $66 a ceiling.

The board set a policy which it expects to adhere to in the future. Five men in the operation and maintenance department who have been in the employ of the board for some time have been found to be suffering from hernia. Two weeks ago one of them, the custodian of Everett school, applied to the board for compensation for an injury which took place two years ago causing such a condition. The board's attorney states that the board is not liable because the man did not report the injury within one year.

The new ruling is that no person who is not physically fit shall be employed by the board. These five men will be given two weeks vacation with full pay to have the trouble attended to in the proper surgical manner because they have been with the board for some time. In the future, no applicant suffering from any such trouble will be employed by the board.

The revised plans for the sidewalks at the new Clinton school were brought before the board and approved. They will be laid as soon as conditions warrant.

The contract will be let May 18 for the special finish hardware for the new Irving junior high school.

The old Randolph school ground will probably be graded and filled in with dirt from the new addition to the high school and be ready for temporary use next fall for the out-of-door sports at the high school. This is only a temporary use of the ground. The board hopes that the city will see fit to buy the tract for a playground or park space.

Ten firms will be prosecuted by the board's attorney at once for the license to sell tobacco which they have failed to pay when due. Proceeds from these licenses bring in to the board about $2,800.

The following recommendations have been made by Superintendent Laffer:

Mina Bergman, regular teacher, $1200.

Homer J. Graves, regular teacher, $1200.

Esther L. J. Anderson, regular teacher, $1150.

Esther Fruhling, regular teacher, $1250.

Mrs. Ethel Long, kindergarten assistant, $800.

Helene Morris, regular teacher, $1200.

The London hospital, the largest general hospital in England is in Stepney and is tonight without lights and several operations had to be postponed.

LOWER CHARGES FOR IRRIGATION

House Bill Reducing Reclamation Rates By Millions Sent To Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Downward revision of water charges between $23,000,000 to $25,000,000 on reclamation projects would be authorized under a house bill passed Monday and sent to the senate.

The bill also would extend from twenty to forty years the time for repayment by settlers of construction charges. Its purpose is to relieve settlers on productive lands from the construction and maintenance costs of non-productive lands.

The measure would strike off nearly $17,000,000 of construction charges for non-productive lands, while the differences between this and the maximum reductions would be spread for by lands temporarily classed as non-productive.

Under the proposed permanent classification of non-productive lands, charges against the respective districts would be reduced as follows:

Belle Fourche, S. D., $487,500; Huntley, Mont., $[illegible]; Lower Yellowstone, $[illegible]; Milk River, Mont., $[illegible]; North Platte, Nebraska-Wyoming, $86,000; Shoshone, Wyoming-Montana, $1,775,200; Sun River, Montana, $728,400; Uncompahgre, Colorado, $1,265,200.

Fournier Hurt In a Collision

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—Jacques Fournier, first baseman of the Robins, and Walter Gautreau, second baseman of the Braves, were injured in a collision during the fourth inning of the Brooklyn-Boston National league game today.

In sliding back to second base after hitting a double, Fournier, who leads both major leagues in home run hitting, tumbled Gautreau to the ground. Fournier sprained his right ankle and was carried off the field, while Gautreau was assisted to the bench with a spike wound in the foot.

English Golfers Shaky on Eve of Yank Invasion

John Bull Fears Defeat In Walker Cup Contests

Gloom Reigns in Golfing Circles of Great Britain as Date Approaches for Classic With American Premiers; Hagen Also Going Over for Another Whirl at British Open Championship.

LONDON, May 4.—(A. P.)—A wave of pessimism regarding Great Britain's chances in the Walker cup matches against the United States at Muirfield June 2 and 3 is sweeping the country.

This attitude is not due to the general strike. Officials believe that the tieup will not affect any of the nation's important annual events.

Reports from golfing camps sound like the American college-pre-football predictions. All stories are to the effect that the leading amateurs have not been playing up to form; that no youngsters like Watt Gunn and Roland MacKenzie of the American team have been discovered, and that no effort for team practice has been made by the score of Walker cup possibilities nominated two months ago by the Royal and Ancient club.

Unworried Over Strike.

The strike undoubtedly will obstruct golf plans for a time, at least, but authorities say it is inceivable that the strike will last until the Walker cup dates.

Entrants for the women's open championship, starting at Harlech Monday, may have to motor to the Welsh seaside, but the American star, Miss Glenna Collett, is already practicing on the St. Davis' course, where the championship tournament will be played.

Walker Team Sails Tonight.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(I. N. S.)—Members of the Walker cup team and Walter Hagen, former holder of the American and British open golf titles, will sail for England at midnight tonight on the Aquitania, unless an eleventh-hour cable from England alters their plans. The U. S. Golf association has completed all preparations for the golfers to sail as scheduled, though there are fears the general strike may postpone the golf championship. The Walker cup team, composed of Bobby Jones, Walt Gunn, Francis Ouimet, Bob Gardner, Jess Sweetzer, Roland Mackenzie, George Von Elm and Jess Guilford, will be feted at a farewell dinner a tthe Waldorf this evening.

Hagen, who is to head an all-star professional team, will be accompanied by Robert E. Harlow, noted golf writer and manager of the ex-champion.

Ladies' Tourney Goes Over.

HARLECH, Wales, May 4.—(I. N. S.)—The British ladies' open golf championship, scheduled to start here this week-end, has been cancelled.

Glenna Collett, American star, had already arrived here to play in this tournament and should be picked as a likely winner.

If the strike situation eases, the tournament may be carried out at a later date.

Gear Rules Out Saints' Protest

The St. Joseph Saints filed and lost the first protest of the Western league season. During a recent Saints-Demons game, a Des Moines batter lammed a liner back of first which Umpire McQuillan called foul. The Des Moines players protested and McQuillan, who confessed that his vision of the hit was more or less obscure, agreed to consult his fellow arbiter, Coe. The latter gent declared the ball was fair, so McQuillan reversed his ruling—and Des Moines won the ball game.

The St. Joseph protest was put up to League President Gear, who has just handed down a ruling that the Saints had nothing to kick about and that the game stands in the record.

CHICAGO, May 4.—(I. N. S.)—Whatever glory there is in being middleweight wrestling champion of the world still belonged to Johnny Meyers today following his "knockout" of Lou Talaber in the first fall of their scheduled three-fall bout before 6,000 fans.

The second and third falls were conceded to the champion after Talaber suffered a broken ankle in the opening tussle. This session lasted an hour and 20 minutes before the ex-champion's ankle snapped.

Bears Appeal For Help, But Turned Down By Demons

Brotherly love between the magnates of baseball might be a fine institution—if somebody were to try it out. Take the case of the Denver club, which is in distress as the result of Manager Joe Berger getting for himself a broken jaw. Immediately following Joe's injury, Magnate Anfenger burned the wires in an effort to acquire a desirable substitute.

The Des Moines club was appealed to, among others, and the answer of the Iowa aggregation was to sell Don Rader, a capable shortstop, and Chick Knaupp, second-sacker and likewise capable, right out of the Western league. Rader had refused to report to Des Moines and Knaupp couldn't be retained because of the ten-veteran rule. Both were marketed to the Little Rock club of the Southern association.

Rader would have been a particularly valuable ball player for Denver, which needs to have a pennant contender if the turnstiles are to be kept clicking in the Dale Gear most populous city. With a first division club, Denver is a corking ball town—which, it would appear, provided an excellent reason for the engineering of a deal to send Rader to the Colorado capital. But "excellent reasons" don't go very far when a pennant is at stake, nor does brotherly affection between rival magnates.

Gibson Urges Vote To Pick Opponent For Glove Champ

NEW YORK, May 4.—Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, suggests that the boxing commissions of all states where the sport is legal, vote on the question as to who shall be named to oppose the heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey.

Gibson contends that Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Louisiana, California and several other states should be heard in the matter—at least he feels that a majority vote would make the contender more of a national selection.

HIGH SPRINTERS TACKLE TROUBLE

Cinder Speedsters May Find It Hard to Equal State Dash Records.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

Early season performances by Nebraska high school track athletes would seem to indicate that the high school dash marks may not be broken this week-end when the interscholastic athletes gather in Lincoln for their annual championships.

The state record for the 100-yard is 10 2-10 seconds and is held jointly by eight athletes; the 220-yard dash record of 22 seconds was set by Art Easter of Cambridge last year; while the state record for the 440-yard sprint is 52 seconds, made by Ostergaard of Gothenburg in 1922—the year the meet was held at the Nebraska state fair grounds.

Few Nebraska high school sprinters have approached these marks this season, the cold weather having held back the high school lads in their early season training.

Century Record Stands.

The marvel of past state meets has been the continued failure of high school youths to lower the 100-yard dash mark, athletes who have been clocked in "ten seconds" on home cinders failing to do better than 10.5 or 10.6 when tossed into competition with the best athletes in the state.

This year, however, may prove an exception. In past championships, the century sprinters have been forced to battle their way through preliminaries and semi-finals, this taking the edge off their efforts to beat the record. This year, the state meet is a two-day affair and the sprinters qualifying Friday will have a good night's rest behind them when they toe the marks for the Saturday final. The result may be a new mark in the 100-yard dash at least.

Hann Potential Smasher.

Herbert Hann, versatile Grand Island athlete, may be the youth who will sprint to a new record. In an early season meet he was timed in ten seconds and throughout the season he has been a consistent winner in the sprint events. Thomson of Lincoln also has been clocked

Success of Petty Gives Hope Marty May Come Through

Pitcher Petty, former Indianapolis southpaw, has been flinging the Spalding pellet with glittering success for the Brooklyn Dodgers this spring. Petty's explanation is that he had his tonsils and several bad teeth removed during the Hot Stove season, reporting in his best physical condition in years.

Petty's sudden rise to fame, plus that tonsils explanation, gives hope that Pitcher Joe Marty soon may be coming through for the Links. Joe declared himself divorced from a troublesome set of tonsils last winter, reporting this year 20 pounds or more over his normal poundage, inducing a state of good health which ought to work out eventually to his advantage.

To date, however, Marty has been bothered by a sore hurling shoulder, which persistent warm weather should eradicate. The local management, meantime, is entirely willing that Petty's case should find its duplication in Marty.

Hoff Huffy; Won't Display Goods At Meet In 'Frisco

SEATTLE, Wash., May 4.—(I. N. S.)—Charles Hoff, pole vaulter, will not compete in the San Francisco meet of the P. A. A. because he felt he was taken too much for granted, according to friends of the Norwegian athlete here today.

It was learned that the message sent to the San Francisco committee of the P. A. A. was sent by Hoff on the insistence of Mrs. "Nettie" Hoff, his bride, who resented what she believed was a slight handed her husband by both P. A. A. and A. A. U. officials.

According to friends here, Hoff was not asked by P. A. A. officials if he would compete. It was simply taken for granted that he would.

In this, however, it was learned, the San Francisco P. A. A. officials went on the word of the A. A. U. that Hoff would appear in the Golden Gate park meet.

Hoff, it was said by his friends here, thought the San Francisco athletic officials should have dealt with him personally, instead of "forcing" the manager. The athlete and his bride are on their way to Los Angeles.

Monte Picks Burly For His Next Bout

Monte Munn, former Nebraska legislator and ex-Cornhusker footballer, will take his second professional filing at at the game of biff when he squares off against Big Boy Bailey in a Commonwealth club preliminary next Saturday night in New York.

Monte polished off Billy Josephs, a dusky giant, in his first ring engagement in Gotham, administering a sleep-producing potion in the introductory round. Bailey, however, is reputed to be much bulkier and taller than Josephs, measuring six inches of the six-foot mark.

Manager Dan Hickey, in charge of Monte's affairs, is planning to book the former Cornhusker center for a series of prelim bouts during the outdoor boxing season in the east building up the husky Nebraska for semi-windups and possibly winter campaigns in fisticuffing circles.

Invitations have been sent to 5,000 high schools and 1,000 academies in 48 states, Canada and Mexico, to compete in the twenty-second national interscholastic track and field championship, to be held by the University of Chicago, June 4 and 5.

Few Sliders Go Head First These Days

BY AL DEMAREE.

Base runners who use the head-first method of sliding into bases are becoming fewer each year and apparently it's only a question of a short time before it becomes as extinct as the old one and two finger signs catchers used to signal for fast and curve balls.

Headfirst sliding is sometimes more effective than feet first. Eddie Roush always uses this method in trying to elude a baseman or catcher who has the ball waiting for him. He can throw his body to one side and grope for the base with his hand more effectively in this manner than with his feet.

Ty Cobb's success with his hook slide might be a reason for the present popularity of feet-first sliding. And of course there are some infielders who are supposed to be "spike shy."

John McGraw, Hal Chase, Buck Herzog and Dode Paskert were some of the great baserunners of the past who slid headfirst. Among the few who cling to this method today are Heinie Groh and Frankie Frisch of the Giants.

HIGH ENTRY LIST BREAKS RECORD

Enrollment of Athletes For This Week's State Meet Include 77 Teams.

The first record to be broken in the twenty-fourth annual Nebraska interscholastic track and field championships, dated for Friday and Saturday in Lincoln, was shattered Tuesday morning when Acting Athletic Director H. D. Gish of the University of Nebraska announced that 77 teams had enrolled for the cinder carnival. The entry list of 73 teams registered for the 1925 meet was the former high mark. More than 800 athletes are entered in the 1926 competition.

CADDIES TAUGHT VALUE OF SAVING

Share of Earnings By Boys At Eastridge Placed To Credit In Bank.

Charles Koontz, Eastridge golf professional, is introducing a new wrinkle at the club this season—a savings account for Eastridge caddies.

According to the plans originated and outlined by Koontz, each caddy will deposit a certain per cent of his earnings in a saving account, the accounts being handled by a local bank and turned back to the boys at the start of the school year in September.

The scheme is being received with enthusiasm by the Eastridge caddies, a majority of whom are now saving fifty per cent of their earnings. During the summer season the "pro" estimates that the Eastridge caddies will deposit a total of $50 each.

Learn Value of Saving.

"The new plan will teach the boys the value of saving their money," says Koontz. "Too often the boys spend their money at the fountain or in town soon after they receive their pay. Under our new method, the boys will have a tidy account with which to buy clothes and books at the start of the school year."

Eastridge caddies probably will play through two tournaments this summer, the first being a handicap affair and the second the regular caddy tournament. When school is dismissed, the boys will be permitted to play the course every Monday morning.

Lefty Grove In Spotlight, Stops Yanks

Lefty Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics, who was so unimportant a figure last year that an incorrect spelling of his name became official, is now envied by American league pitchers.

He gained a high place in the history of the early 1926 season by stopping the winning streak of the New York Yankees yesterday, 5 to 3, after the batters of Miller Huggins had rammed their way to victory in eight straight contests.

This group of eight victories, the best record of any team in the majors to date, included three conquests of the American league champion Senators; three of the Athletics, figured by many critics as coming champions, and two of the Boston Red Sox.

Bob Shawkey was the victim of Grove's eight hit performance and left the game in the sixth, when the Athletics scored four times.

Mackmen Smash Yankees' Streak Of Eight in Row

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—(AP)—The Yankees' eight-game winning streak came to an abrupt end yesterday when the Athletics took the series' opener, 5 to 3. Lefty Grove, the winning pitcher, was the first man to go the route unaided against the Hugmen this year and come out on top. Score by innings:

Tigers Stop White Sox.

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—Detroit bunched hits in the first and second innings yesterday and broke Chicago's winning streak of five in a row, 3 to 1. Manush's circuit drive, Cobb's single and Heilman's triple put the Tigers in the lead and they were never headed. Barrett, White Sox right fielder, wrenched his knee in going after Heilmann's drive in the first and was forced to retire. Score by innings: R H E

BOSTON, May 4.—(AP)—Steady twirling by Ogden, coupled with ineffective pitching by Ruffing in the early innings, was responsible for the Senators' 6 to 2 victory over the Red Sox yesterday. Flagstead starred for Boston in the outfield. Goslin hit a homer for the visitors in the fourth. Score by innings: R H E

CLEVELAND, May 4.—(AP)—Cleveland broke its losing streak yesterday by defeating St. Louis, 3 to 1, in a pitchers' battle between Levsen and Zachary. Levsen allowed only six hits, three of which were bunched in the first inning for the visitors' only run. With two on and two out in the ninth, Levsen fanned Pinch-hitter Hargrave. Score by innings:

LABARBA FACING TOUGH OPPONENT

Flyweight Champion Takes On Salt Lake Scrapper In Coast Ring.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 4.—(I. N. S.)—Fidel LaBarba, the studious little fellow who holds the world's flyweight title, will dispose of a tough contender tonight if he defeats Emil Paluso of Salt Lake City and New York. The boxers will meet at anywhere from 113 to 118 pounds. LaBarba thus will be relieved of anxiety concerning his flyweight sceptre.

Paluso has promised, however, to give him other matters to worry about. Emil is the lad who knocked out sixty-one opponents in his last eighty fights.

Tonight's bout will be a 12-round no-decision contest. Leo Flynn, Paluso's manager, promised boxing fans today that a decision might not be necessary.

The boxers have many points in common. Both are 20 years of age, of Italian parentage and both are planning to continue their schooling. Their physical measurement might well be taken with a carbon copy. Paluso possesses a half-inch advantage in reach.

The Portland club of London is the supreme authority on bridge as played under the English code.

Tennis Czars Prepare to Hand Mr. Pyle Icy Mitt

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(I. N. S.)—They say you can't shoot a man for trying, but that depends on what he is and what he tries, if anything. On Fifth avenue, for instance, they shoot a bandit if he tries to escape and on Tenth avenue they shoot him if he doesn't. Anyhow, by the time the U. S. Lawn Tennis association gets through putting on the official "chill" for Mr. C. C. Pyle today, shooting may be wholly superfluous. It may be so much simpler just to throw him away.

The association has been "propositioned" by Pyle about giving absolution to Mlle. Lenglen's proposed tour of box offices in this country and, according to common gossip, even if the idea was good, the officials wouldn't like it. They are scheduled to arrive at a verdict this afternoon, but the good word is that most of them have a one-way neck and will be able to say "no" without looking.

Fear to Wound Feelings.

They are wholly indisposed to be impetuous about the thing because the case involves a foreign champion who wishes to proceed about her business with the alleged approval of a foreign government body. A refusal to play ball on the idea might lead to international complications, and the U. S. L. T. A. just loves that sort of thing.

At the same time, they find Mr. Pyle himself far from reassuring. If the Mademoiselle could achieve another manager, mostly non-professional, it is possible that the association could arrange to achieve another attitude, for it fears to further affront the Mademoiselle, who bruises very easily, indeed.

Pitcher Stayed On Mound With Skull Fracture

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—Al Mamaux, Newark International league pitcher, is suffering from concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull. He received the injury in Saturday's game with Buffalo when a seemingly harmless foul tip in the third inning hit him on the head.

Stunned, he was assisted to the dugout. He returned to the mound and pitched well for five innings, although he had virtually lost his memory and had only a hazy recollection of what happened.

After the game the X-ray disclosed the seriousness of his injury and he was ordered to bed. He is still under the care of a surgeon, although his condition is not considered critical.

Proposes Scheme To Razz Razzers

Sports Editor The Star: I would like to inscribe a few lines in regard to razzers and knockers at local ball games. I would like to ask them if it would not be a whole lot better to boost than to knock? Let them try, at least once. It certainly is disgusting to all loyal fans to hear a lot of knockers begin to howl as soon as a game starts. If the umpire calls a ball or two, the knockers begin to howl for a new pitcher, and whenever a player makes a bobble they razz him to a turn instead of offering encouragement. I believe the cure for this razzing business is to organize an anti-razzing brigade, taking a few of these razzers by the nape of the neck and throw them out. Mr. Razzer, how would you appreciate being bawled out for every little mistake you make in your own line of work? Or are you perfect? Yours truly,

R. W. SCHAEFE.

Mme. Suzanne Lenglen, the great French tennis star, will invade America in July to take the leading role in a motion picture and play a series of exhibition matches. She will remain in the country for six months.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak, discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Harley Drug Co. or any druggists.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years — when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.—Advertisement.

Your trouble begins when stomach fails

Help your stomach end constipation

If your Stomach and Liver are weak, your food is not digested. Sour, undigested food stays in your body and causes bad breath, gas pains, and constipation. For 50 years, people have sensibly corrected constipation with Chamberlain's Tablets for the Stomach and Liver. They not only relieve constipation but remedy the cause—a weak stomach. With this natural remedy, you, too, will avoid constipation. Try them tonight—be happier tomorrow! Ask your druggist.

"I used different remedies but they did not do much good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in about a month and a half I was healed." Signed: Mrs. Lulu M. Tolbert, Randles, Mo.

Market Quotations

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4.

British strike developments overshadowed all other factors in the whea market today and during the late dealings cut down some quotations almos, five cents a, bushel. Subsequently, though word of export business at Winnipeg led to rallies A decrease of 4-452,000 bushels in the world's available supply was announced, but was considered small as against 13,511,000 bushels falling off a year ago.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1⅜ to 3⅜c lower; corn ¼ to ⅝c off, and oats ⅛ to ¾c down.

WHEAT—New setbacks in the value of wheat took place early today on account of selling due to British labor troubles. The downturns were emphasized by prospects of rain northwest likely to benefit the spring crop. On the declines, however, there was fairly active buying on the part of yesterday's sellers and this circumstance tended somewhat to check weakness. The opening, ⅛ to ⅝c lower, May (new), $1.61@1.61¼ and July $1.39⅜@1.40, was followed by a slight rally and then by an irregular decline that carried May down to $1.58 and July to $1.38¼.

CORN—Corn and oats gave way with wheat. After opening ⅛ to ⅜c off, July 76@76¼c, the corn market underwent a material further sag.

OATS—Oats started unchanged to ⅛c lower, July 41⅞c. Later all months showed a loss.

PROVISIONS—Provisions reflected grain weakness, despite an upward trend in hog values.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 4.

Stock prices deloped strong resistance today to the selling pressure inspired by the strike in Great Britain. Prices quickly sold down 1 to 3 points at the opening with much of the selling representing the hasty liquidation of stocks bought yesterday afternoon when it appeared that negotiations for settlement might be resumed and the strike everted.

By early afternoon a good sized rally was underway with such popular issues as U. S. Steel common, Pullman, American Car and Foundry, Atchison, Atlantic Refining, Mack Truck, DuPont, Radio corporation and consolidated Gas selling 1 to nearly 3 points above yesterday's final quotations.

The cotton market also held steady, but wheat prices, the most volatile in the commodity group, broke 2½ to nearly 4½ cents a bushel, the May option selling down to 1.57.

Demand sterling was held relatively steady on reports that the British government was supporting the currency. French and Belgian francs sank to new record low levels.

Trading in the stock market was moderate in volume, sales in the first three hours falling below 700,000 shares.

Commission houses reported that public participation was small.

Stock prices worked sharply lower at the opening of trading today as heavy selling was inspired by the beginning of the general strike in Great Britain. Bear trade took advantage of the situation to exert pressure against vulnerable issues and growing nervousness led to a general liquidation of long accounts. Initial declines of 1 to 3 points were recorded by General Electric, American Woolen, Allied Chemical, Hudson Motors and Foundation company.

The closing was strong. Sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—Opinion as to what the grain market will do with trade in Great Britain tied up by the strike are of little or no value, experts say. Close observers declare this is not the time for fixed opinions.

Selling of a large line of May wheat by one of the bull houses caused some comment the last day, especially as the market broke almost 5 cents, from the high point of the day. It added to the uncertainty of traders on what May wheat will do. Cash houses are picking up car lots of wheat wherever possible to deliver on May sales.

Private estimates of three experts on the winter wheat crop condition as of May 1 ranged from 84 per cent of normal to 87.2. The abandonment percentage was placed at 5 per cent by one observer; 5.1 by another and 6.4 by a third. Three estimates on the yield were 554,000,000 bushels, 558,000,000 and 573,000,000.

One expert estimated the rye crop at 44,000,000 bushels, while another had the figure at 500,000 bushels greater.

From one community in Carroll county, Iowa, comes the report of sale of thirteen farms, the prices ranging from $233 to $312.50 an acre. A total of 1,321 acres were sold and the total purchase price was $376,670. It is claimed the market values at the present time may be accepted as sound values. Speculative buying is not in progress at this time.

Early planted corn is up in the territory between Clinton, Kas., and Oklahoma City, says a report received here. Early wheat is heading.

Franklin County Meet Next Week

FRANKLIN, Neb., May 4.— The annual Franklin county track and field meet will be held here May 15.

Touching the Bases.

The winning streak of the Yankees ended at eight straight when the league leaders succumbed to the Athletics, 8 to 3. Lefty Grove flung a mean curve, while the A's sent Bob Shawkey to the cleaner in the sixth.

Chicago also came a cropper after having won five straight, by losing to the Tigers, 3 to 1. The slugging of Manush, Cobb and Heilmann enabled Whitehill to gain the verdict over Thurston.

Washington again laid out the Red Sox, 6 to 2, Curly Ogden performing the necessary rites.

Bob McGraw, Brooklyn rookie, turned in his third straight win in subduing Boston, 4 to 1. Fournier got his fifth homer and is now setting the pace for the circuit clouters of both leagues.

A cleanup double by Bill Terry, the Giants' prodigal first-baseman, featured New York's 11 to 2 victory over the Philies. Wisner blanked the Phils in eight of the nine innings.

The Reds negotiated a tie for second place by outslugging the Cardinals, 9 to 6, and flashed a triple steal on the Cards in the bargain.

The base stealers in the major leagues are having close competition. Bob Muesel of the Yankees is leading the throng with six thefts, while Frisch of the Giants and Cuyler of the Pirates are trailing with five each. Rice of Washington and Simmons of Philadelphia are third with four apiece.

Ty Cobb, fiery leader of the Tigers is making it interesting for the batters of the American league. The Georgia peach, in turning in three hits in five times at bat against Hollis Thurston of the White Sox, moved up to second place among the hitters with a mark of .444. Joe Dugan of the Yankees, in poling two in three times at bat managed to make his mark for leadership .453.

Changing the Definition of "Lost"

We say it means "Not advertised for in the Star's Lost and Found Column."

And—judging from the results that these little Classified Ads are getting every day—it looks as though we were right!

It's not hard to account for the success of the Star's Lost and Found Classification. It's based on the simple facts that nearly every finder is honest and that his first move will be to look through these ads to find out who lost the article he has just found.

The real proof of this is in the trying—next time you lose something of value, call B1234 and ask for an ad-taker.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

They Ttalk Wild.

Dear Minerva: This morning I rode to work on the street-car behind two school girls, evidently attending our state university, judging by the direction they took when they left the car, and the books under the arms. Both girls were minus hats and their bobbed heads, shorn like boys, were anything but feminine and attractive. The hair grew straggly and straight down their necks and around their ears and these same necks and ears didn't look any too clean. You could see plainly where they had swiped their powder puffs and where they hadn't. They hadn't neglected to paint cupid's bows on their lips but they hadn't looked at the unattractive rears of their heads and necks.

They were talking loudly enough to be heard all over the car. I can't quote their slang, but I'll tell you the trend of their remarks. They agreed that the best plan of living is to get married early and then get a speedy divorce. They wanted to get married in order to be freed from any home ties and they then wanted to get divorced so as not to have any ties at all. In obtaining a divorce they expected to get big alimony. How they would manage this they didn't state, but judging from cases all about us it seems easy enough to manage.

When I see sights such as these I do not wonder that people ask what the younger generation is coming to. I can't imagine such girls making neat, comely, sweet wives and mothers. OLD FASHIONED.

A.—"Shingle-bells, shingle-bells,
Shingle all your hair
But don't forget to wash your neck
Or else don't leave it bare."

Personally I don't see many girls that forget the backs of their necks. I think there are more well-groomed looking heads (and necks) these days than there have been for many a day. The care of bobbed hair is much more demanding than the care of long hair was and for the most part girls answer the demands.

The slovenly ones are, as you think, most unlovely and unfeminine.

I wouldn't take the conversation of these girls too seriously. Probably these very girls will fall desperately in love with some man who wouldn't be able to pay alimony if it were demanded of him, and will cheerfully don their kitchen smocks and quickly forget all their wild talk of divorces and independence.

Divorces are not, for the most part, premeditated. They result rather from a laxness of discipline and a looseness of living that make of marriage a thing of horror and divorce the easiest way out.

The prevalence of easy divorces is a thing to meditate on seriously. But the wild conversation of a couple of school girls is not indicative of any evil trend of modern thought.

One More Word.

Dear Minerva: May I add one word to the discussion on "petting" before you officially put on the brakes?

The men write that they don't like petters. They don't want to marry girls who have kissed and been kissed promiscuously.

How funny. Why then, pray tell, do they always start the petting party? And why do they feel so hurt if a girl declines to pet? They are all brothers under the skin when they have a car, a girl and a full moon.

How about the girls who want men for husbands who have not been petted promiscuously? I know a few of us who would like to have that brand, if such were to be found. Men have had their way too long. A man tires of wine, women and song and longs for love, a cottage and twilight. He offers some girl mentally and morally above him the battered, tarnished lump of brass that is his heart, and feels somewhat insulted if she isn't as appreciative as if it were a lump of pure gold, untarnished, and minus the dents.

As for me, I have ideals, and when I marry, I want no has-been for a husband. CYNICAL.

A.—All very fin,, my dear, but why be cynical about it. Cynicism doesn't bring happiness of any brand. Hold your standards high, but don't become a fanatic like the religious fanatic, for example, who thinks that by parading the streets sandwiched in by signs reading "Damnation waits the sinners" that he will force the Christian gospel into the hearts of observers.

Shun the men who are lightly driven to "petting" by either the full moon or the full flask. There are plenty of earnest, sincere, serious-minded men who are not seeking the cheap thrills, but are seeking to justify their existence through honorable work and dream of the one woman. Yes, there are. Don't harden your heart and deny their existence or you will become so bitter and tart that you will have no sweetness with which to attract the men of ideals you hope to find.

Live a normal, busy life; keep away from the people who do not live up to your ideals. But don't be a sneering, cynical, holier-than-thou person.

To Pumpkinville.

Dear Minerva:

Fair France can boast of "gay Paree,"
Her style designing city,
And of the beauty of Versailles
Can sing a pretty ditty;
With pride she struts through Carcassone,
Boasts of the Loire and Brest,
The grand old Rheims cathedral
Where our Yankees love to rest.

The Germans boast the Danube blue,
The vineyards on the Rhine,
And drink to Mars, the god of war,
In sparkling Rhenish wine.
They boast the Hohenzollern,
Berlin and Bremen, too.
And chant the folk-tales of the Hartz,
And what their war-lords do.

And Ireland boasts its Dublin Bay,
The blue lakes of Killarney,
The peat bogs and the shamrock green,
And ancient Castle Blarney.
Down where the River Shannon flows
Athlone lies in the sun,
And past Kilkenny and its towers
The Nore, unfamed, has run.

Old Scotland has its Grampion Hills,
Loch Lomond and the Clyde,
Old Edinbourg and "sweet Dundee,"
Her Highland clans beside.
'Tis there my fancy loves to roam,
Ancestral pipes to tune,
I dream I pass Glen Avon's dells,
Or pipe beside Loch Doon.

There's not a land beneath the sun
But has its thousand charms,
But oh, for me, the U. S. A.,
And the freedom of its farms.
Its mountain peaks outclass the Alps,
Its farms the Devon dairy,
Its sons are mental stalwarts,
And its every maid's a fairy.

And snuggled down among its hills,
Where once the red men trod
The wind-swept prairies and the plains,
My plow shall turn the sod.
My castle's but a farmhouse old,
My kingdom's but a farm,
For me no place in all the world
Holds half its homely charm.

And here's to thee, dear Pumpkinville,
Though scorned by little minds;
I love your hills and peaceful vales,
The road that hillward winds.
I love the glory of the dawn
That floods the east with rose,
Why little minds scorn Pumpkinville
The dear Lord only knows.

PLAN PROGRAMS FOR MUSIC WEEK

Women's Clubs Make Arrangements For Proper Observance in Nebaska.

Music recitals, radio programs and music memory contests in schools feature Nebraska's observance this week of National music week.

The Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs through Mrs. E. H. Wescott of Plattsmouth, state chairman of music, has arranged a series of programs during the week from radio stations WCAW at Omaha, KFAB at Lincoln, KMMJ at Clay Center and WJAG at Norfolk. A series of radio teas has been arranged by various local clubs over the state at which the radio programs will be used.

At Plattsmouth concerts have been arranged to feature local talent. Concerts will also be given by the high school orchestra and the Seventeenth infantry band as well as musical programs at the Masonic home and the county farm, under the direction of Mrs. John Gorder.

At Clay Center station KMMJ will radiocast programs by Harvard, Clay Center, Fairfield, Nelson and Grand Island talent. Essay contests and concerts at the public schools and a band concert Saturday will also feature the week's program there, under the direction of Mrs. John Muhm.

At Havelock a series of community song services, band concerts and community meetings have been arranged by the women's clubs and parent-teachers associations.

The Lincoln program will be featured by a concert by Schumann-Heink at the Auditorium sponsored by the American Legion.

At Wayne programs have been arranged by all civic and social clubs as well as schools and churches.

Ainsworth observed music week during the final week in April.

Norfolk will have a series of recitals from station WJAG and concerts at schools and churches.

"Nebraska My Native Land," written by Grace Lutgen and Leon Beery of Wayne, has been adopted as a state song by the state federation of women's clubs and will be featured at club programs during the week.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The supreme court refused Monday to pass upon the validity of the conviction of James Murray and William J. Fahey, indicated with seven others for conspiracy to rob the mails at Chicago, Indianolis and to hold up a mail train in 1924.

New Electrical Measure Has No Bonding Clause

A new electrical ordinance minus a bonding issue which had been written into it by Commissioner Wright, and approved by Fire Chief Hansen and the Electrical inspector, was passed by the city council Monday afternoon.

A majority of the council wanted to pass the measure with a paragraph bonding electrical contractors and exempting journeymen. This, it was declared, would be illegal and Mr. Wright was forced to submit to the elimination of the bonding feature or see the bill consigned to the scrap heap.

Mayor Zehrung and Commissioner Gillaspie for several weeks have been planning on trading some small pieces of park property to the advantage of the city. One tract was in the center of a block in Peck's Grove addition, and could have been traded to F. J. Peck for a corner lot which would have given the city a 160-foot entrance to the new park at Thirty-second and X streets. The other plot is on the Rock Island right of way. In a series of trades all of which would have been to the advantage of the city, officials declare, the park commissioner planned completion of a boulevard from Twenty-fourth and L to Twenty-third and O streets.

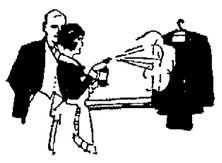

The projects were rejected by the legal department. Park property cannot be traded, and neither can it be sold except at public auction.

DEBS IMPROVED.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 4.—(AP)—Eugene V. Debs, socialist leader, who is confined to his home by a phiysical relapse which followed his return from a trip to Bermuda, showed slight improvement Monday. His condition is not regarded as serious by attending physicians. Mr. Debs' illness will prevent him from attending the national convention of the socialist party at Pittsburgh this week.

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—(AP)—More than 100 men were last night battling flames on Grandfather mountain, where the worst forest fire in the history of McDowell county was eating into valuable timber of Pysgan national forest. A light rain fell Monday over a part of the burning area, but it was not sufficient to aid materially in checking the fire which started last Wednesday.

Never again need you find a moth-hole

LARVEX is an amazing liquid. And it brings every woman two features she has never before enjoyed.

First, it gives her woolen things absolutely sure protection against all moth-damage.

Second, it brings this protection without the fuss and bother of packing things away.

You can forget all about moths and moth-worms when you use LARVEX. For LARVEX works in a new way. It protects the cloth itself—makes it moth-proof—so that moth-worms will not eat it. (Remember—moths themselves are harmless. They lay eggs which hatch into moth-worms. The moth-worms do all the eating.)

Just spray LARVEX thoroughly right on the articles you wish to protect. It penetrates the wool fibres—and makes them proof against moth-attack for an entire season.

When sprayed with LARVEX, your clothes are safe hanging in the closets. Moth-worms will not eat them. And they are always available. Never wrinkled. Never smelly. For LARVEX is odorless.

Harmless, too! And non-inflammable. Use LARVEX to mothproof every woolen thing you own.

LARVEX with special atomizer is $1.50. Once you have the atomizer buy LARVEX without atomizer, $1. Or save money—buy the gallon refill size at $5, or the ½ gallon at $3. At drug, department and furniture stores. Get LARVEX today. THE LARVEX CORPORATION, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Another Reason

Baking beans in real ovens—the Heinz way—renders them tender and mealy so that each bean soaks up the rich sauce in which they come.

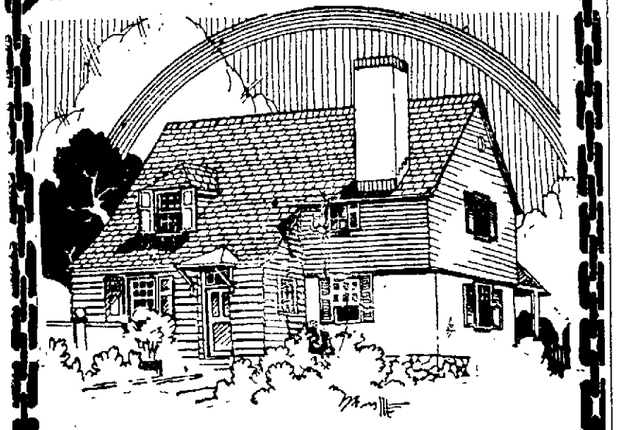

Thus, oven-baking develops flavor and prepares the way for this added goodness. Boiled, soggy beans could not do that. Look at the label for real Heinz Oven-Baked Beans. Beans cannot be labeled baked unless they are baked.

The taste is the test

"Oh, what a pretty roof!"

THIS is the comment usually expressed as a compliment to the Mule-Hide Rainbow Roof, generally conceded to be the "prettiest roof in town."

Beautiful, long-wearing, fire-resisting, absolutely waterproof—this artistic roof described by prominent architects and builders as "a harmonious blending of soft, pleasing colors marked by the absence of sharp or flashy contrasts," may be produced with any one of several types of Mule-Hide multiple or individual type shingles that we carry in stock.

No artificial dyes or colorings are used on the surfacing of Mule-Hide Shingles or Roofing. Only natural slates and minerals—as yielded by Mother Earth—produce the lasting colors that never fade.

Old roofs, too, may be covered with this artistically surfaced Rainbow shingle. Select your next roof with care. Buy Mule-Hide, which is double guaranteed by ourselves and the manufacturers. Other colors that we also carry in Mule-Hide are Meadow Green, Deep Red, Blue Black and Golden Brown.
